YANK CAPTAIN OF REFUGEE SHIP JAILED

Cincinnati Man Is Imprisoned After Fight with British Palestine Troops.

By The Associated Press

HAIFA, PALESTINE, July 19—The American captain of the refugee ship Exodus 1947 was reported in jail today as result of a shipboard battle between more than 4,500 Jewish immigrants and 50 British Marines which left three dead and more than 30 injured.

One of the dead was identified by a British officer as an American. First Mate Willie Bernstein of Los Angeles. The officer said her slaying occurred in Haifa hospital of head wounds. The other victims were Jewish immigrants.

John Stanley Grauel, 40, of Worcester, Mass., who served with the immigrants, says he skipper, Capt. Benjamin Marks, 25, of Cincinnati, was imprisoned as the Jews were moved to troopships for deportation to Cyprus. There was no immediate confirmation from British sources.

Already at Cyprus

The unarmed immigrants already have reached Cyprus detention camps, joining some 15,000 others who have met similar fates.

Latest reports said 28 refugees, including 17 women and a child, and three British Marines were injured in the shipboard fight. The ship, formerly the 1,814-ton Chesapeake bay excursion vessel President Warfield, was intercepted off the southwest coast of Palestine yesterday by five British warships.

The refugee vessel was badly damaged by ramming during the boarding operation, and several British craft were damaged, but the Exodus steamed into Palestine under her own power.

The Haifa hospital reported 17 Jews in serious condition from club and gunshot injuries. A British announcement said three Marines had been hurt.

Fight for 2 Hours

Smoke bombs, steam jets, fuel oil, tear gas, small arms and even fireworks were brought into play aboard the 27-year-old, one-time Chesapeake bay excursion vessel, the British said, and life rafts dropped from the ship damaged the destroyers. A Jewish broadcast from the ship reported the

Foes, Backers of Dead Tax Bill Agree To Make It Issue in '48

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—Failure of the senate to override President Truman's veto of the GOP tax cutting bill caused the issue to the 1948 political campaigns today, both sides expressed willingness to let the voters decide who was right.

Prospects for any modifications at this session of congress died last night when backers of the bill marshaled only 57 senate votes against 30 supporters of the President—five short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Earlier the house had voted to override, 299 votes to spare, 298 to 108.

Sponsor Not Unhappy

"I'm not unhappy," Senator Millikin (R-Col), chief sponsor of the bill, told reporters. "Prospects are 40,000,000 taxpayers will would have a lot more money except for two votes." A Democratic president next year, he said, would be faced with a Republican congress.

Rep. Robsion of Texas, the house Democratic leader, early said he was glad the veto was sustained. "If the Republicans want to play this kind of tax bill into the campaign," he said, "I will welcome the issue."

Likely Political Show

Although the senate failed to override, the vote was considered by its 60 to 32 vote on passage last week—which also was less than the necessary two-thirds—the actual test was a largely political show.

Millikin, bald and deep-voiced, made a "pep" talk in reply to the presidential veto which termed the tax bill "the wrong law at the wrong time, unsound and unfair and premature and faulty."

Senator Taylor (D-Idaho) pointed out that the President had favored tax cuts at the proper time.

"The people can't get proper time," Millikin shot back.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky warned of a possible "blow up in Europe." And said it would be wise to have some surplus funds available. He declared "the second Republican move to cut taxes was just an attempt to make political hay."

Changes Vote

Then Senator Tydings (D-Md), who had voted for the bill when the senate passed it Monday, rose to announce that he would support the veto.

He said that small nations near Soviet Russia are under fear and direction of Moscow, and that he favored keeping a "gun behind the door" in the form of some extra cash in the treasury.

When the roll was called one other Democrat, Umstead of North Carolina, and one Republican, Aiken of Vermont, joined Eyding in reversing earlier votes for the bill.

The presidential forces picked up still another backer in Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), who was out of the country on the earlier vote. Altogether 47 Republicans and 10 Democrats voted to override; 32 Democrats and three Republicans to sustain the veto.

Shrine Benefit Ball Game At Park Tonight

The Marion-Springfield Ohio State league game at Lincoln park tonight will be the second annual Shrine benefit game staged in Marion.

Ceremonies at the park start at 7:30. The gates will be opened at 5:30.

Marching units from Aladdin Temple will have a feature role in the program. Both units the band and marching patrol are nationally famous. They were scheduled to parade through down-town Marion this afternoon. Shrine officials from Aladdin Temple in Columbus will be introduced at the park.

Tickets will be on sale at the box office. Advance sales point to an attendance of about 4,000 if favorable weather prevails.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Aladdin Temple Crippled Children's Hospital association.

Souvenir programs telling of the aims of the hospital association and giving a history of the Shrine will be distributed to all persons attending.

A fireworks display will be staged following the game.

No definite plans have been made to present the Shrine benefit game program at a later date if it is rained out. Shrine officials report. The fireworks display will be given tomorrow night if rained out tonight, but arrangements have not been made to secure Aladdin Temple participation then. Tickets will be honored at later Cub games in case of rain.

SAY OVERSTOCK WAS INHERITED

Former Democratic Administration Takes Sharp Issue with Critical Report.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 19—Sharp retort on to Ohio Liquor Director Dale Dunifon's disclosure that the state has a $40,000,000 spirits inventory against a $17,500,000 normal inventory came today from former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, one of his former liquor purchasing agents, and the Franklin county prosecutor who was invited to conduct a grand jury probe into state liquor matters.

Lausche said at Cleveland that brandy and rum stocks were 69 per cent of the inventory when he took office Jan. 1, 1945, and that when he vacated the state house last January the over-all liquor inventory had risen only about $5,000,000 during his administration.

He said that the total liquor inventory in 1945 was $21,631,953 and rose to only $29,769,476 when he turned the administration over to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert this year.

Lausche said that explanations of individual liquor purchases would have to come from those who had made them but Patrick A. Radigan of Elyria declared that he had no apologies for liquor bought when he was the administrative assistant in charge of liquor purchases during the Lausche regime.

Joint Statement Promised

Radigan promised a joint statement from Supreme Court Judge Robert Sohngen, Lausche's liquor director Albert Halmert, now assistant state auditor who also was one of Sohngen's assistants, and himself.

"All these purchases were made in good faith with the full knowledge, consent and approval of the director," Radigan said. "In the light of changing conditions errors could have been made. If they were made, they were honest errors and were comparatively of small consequence."

Prosecutor Ralph A. Bartlett of Columbus who was asked to study Dunifon's report to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert for possible grand jury action, asserted that if such a probe materialized it would not be confined merely to the Lausche administration.

Will Perform Duty

Bartlett contended in a letter to Dunifon, that state law required Atty. Gen. Hugh Jenkins "to prosecute" liquor matters if he had evidence of liquor department fraud. The Franklin county prosecutor who is a Democrat said only that he would perform his duty as he saw it.

Dunifon said at a news conference yesterday that the bulk of contributing purchases to the swollen inventory had come during the final months of the Lausche administration. He also said that unwise purchases were made during the brief regime of his predecessor, Stanley B. Cofall.

Dunifon flatly stated that 61 firms would be asked to take back "slow-moving and overstocked" items now on the liquor department's hands.

Bartlett declared that there would be an investigation only "if the governor, the attorney general and yourself have anything specific to lay before the prosecuting attorney."

Blasts Former Probe

Bartlett chided both the Ohio senate's liquor investigating committee and Attorney General Jenkins for previous liquor probes. He said:

"From the very beginning of the Herbert administration the newspapers [illegible] that [illegible] the liquor department [illegible] the state in so-called repeated investigations as long as the business was good but the attorney [illegible] to speak [illegible] to [illegible]

ARMS TRAINING WINS APPROVAL

House Group O.K.'s Bill Granting Virtually What Truman Asked.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19 — A house armed services subcommittee today approved a universal training bill following closely the administration plan outlined by President Truman to a special commission.

The subcommittee is headed by Rep. Vinson (R-NJ). Its action is subject to review by the full armed services committee at a meeting next Tuesday.

Subcommittee members reported the vote was seven for the bill, one against, one not voting and one absent.

Favor Bill

The bill 33-member committee approved is top-heavy in favor of the bill although house Republican leaders said it will not be acted on by this session of congress.

The bill approved by the subcommittee calls for six months basic training for qualified young men between their 18th and 20th birthdays, followed by five years of membership in an active National Guard, or other reserve component. A youth would be allowed to have his induction deferred until he becomes 20 if he completes his high school training.

The bill provides for deferment allowances of $50 a month to one dependent and $80 for two or more.

The training program would be administered by a three-member commission appointed by the president.

Draftees would receive $30 a month during their basic training period regardless of their family situation. They would wear uniforms bearing a distinctive insignia and would not be subject to military service except in cases of national emergency.

Both the Army, the Navy and President Truman have advocated universal training as necessary for national security. Veterans' groups have supported it while most civilian educators and religious groups generally have opposed it.

The nine-member civilian commission named by Mr. Truman last May recommended in a report that the compulsory induction of up to 950,000 Americans a year as an "urgent military necessity."

Senate Passes Bill To Hike GI Benefits

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—The senate passed today legislation increasing living allowances to veterans attending school under the GI bill of rights. It now goes to the house.

Action by voice vote came as the senate turned to a sheaf of veterans bills including one to authorize cashing of terminal leave bonds worth $1,800,000,000.

Hospital Dismisses Injured Aerial Star; Circus Act Goes On

Al Davis, 30, of Yorkshire, England, one of the star aerial performers with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, who was injured in a 20-foot fall yesterday afternoon, was released from City hospital at 8 p. m. last night, authorities there reported.

Mr. Davis, a member of the Alzanas group was testing his apparatus yesterday before the afternoon performance and was sliding to the ground when he became entangled in the rope, lost his grip and fell to the ground, suffering a back injury.

The high-wire act climaxes the aerial and acrobatic acts and was seen just before the final elephant act. Davis and three women a family group, stage the breath-taking performance. Mr. Davis' specialty is skipping rope on the wire and walking without the aid of the balancing pole. The act yesterday was put on by the other three artists.

At 9:45 last night a little over an hour after Mr. Davis was released, Jenina Titen 25 of Miami, Fla., an usher at the circus was admitted with an injured ankle suffered in a fall from the stands.

According to hospital reports his condition was fairly good today. A report of the X-ray examination had not yet been received showing the extent of his injuries.

According to the report he was attempting to assist a spectator who seemed in danger of falling. Titen lost his balance and fell 20 feet from the seats to the ground.

FOREIGN POLICY FUNDS VOTED

Alarmed House Shoves Money Bill for Aid Projects to Senate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—Spurred by alarm over strife in Greece and a widening split between Russia and the western powers, the house shoved along to the senate today a $1,603,199,094 appropriations measure carrying $1,353,024,900 to finance this nations foreign policy.

House passage came last night by voice vote in just an hours time—perhaps a peacetime record for a measure of its magnitude and international implication—amid cries for halting all aid to countries under Russian domination.

Several Funds Approved

The foreign funds included the full $400,000,000 previously authorized to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communism, $332,000,000 for foreign relief, $550,000,000 to pay the costs of the army's relief-government occupation program in Germany, Korea and Japan and $71,024,000 for the United States share in the international refugees organization.

Consideration of the omnibus aid measure came in the midst of several developments bearing directly on the administrations present foreign policy program and upon future diplomatic moves in which congress will have a powerful voice.

5 Developments Noted

They include:

1. A decision by a house judiciary sub-committee to pigeon-hole until next year a measure which would authorize immigration of 400,000 European war refugees over a four-year period.

2. Approval by the house rules committee of two congressional

Parents Surprised Son Not in U. S. Service

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 19 — The parents of Bernard Marks, 25, identified as the skipper of a refugee ship jailed after a shipboard battle between Jewish immigrants and British Marines at Haifa, Palestine, said today they thought their son still was in the U. S. merchant marine.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marks told newsmen they last heard from their boy a month ago when he informed them by cable from France that he would be home sometime in September.

Mrs. Adele Marks, the Cincinnatian's sister, said her brother served "for almost four years in the merchant marine during the World War." He attained the rank of lieutenant and most of his service was in the European theater, she added.

Marks entered the University of Cincinnati in the fall of 1945, after being discharged from the merchant marine, his sister added, but left school a short time later to re-enlist.

SECRETARY OF WAR QUITS; AIDE STEPS IN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson satisfied that his fight to unify the armed forces is won will leave his cabinet post next Thursday and return to private law practice in New York after seven years of service in the war department.

As the New Yorker's successor President Truman has nominated Undersecretary Kenneth C. Royall of North Carolina, a veteran of both world wars and a former brigadier general.

The shift left Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal as the only wartime cabinet member still in the government service. This aroused new speculation that Forrestal might become head of the Army, Navy and Air Forces as the new secretary of national defense proposed in the pending merger bill.

In his letter of resignation yesterday Patterson told Mr. Truman "I could not see my way clear to leave until the issue of reorganization of the military establishment was resolved."

Patterson, who is 56, was a federal judge before he came to the war department in July 1940, as assistant secretary. He became undersecretary in December, 1940, and directed the Army's supply procurement during the war. He succeeds Henry L. Stimson as secretary in September, 1945.

Royall is 53 and a native of Goldsboro, N. C. He was appointed undersecretary in November, 1945.

Wages Top Record With Prices Seen Following Shortly

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—The bureau of labor statistics reported today that average pay in manufacturing hit a record high of $1.22 an hour for a 40-hour week in June.

At the same time Bureau Director Ewan Clague said rising food prices and rents in the next few months may send the cost of living past the record level of mid-March.

Clague said the manufacturing wage scale in June began to reflect the wage hikes of 10 to 15 cents an hour in basic industries last spring. It was up a nickel an hour over February.

"Real wages"—average earnings weighted against consumer prices—were up 20 per cent from August, 1939, Clague said. The weighted earnings were 129.5 per cent of the 1939 level, while the actual average weekly earnings were 20.6 per cent above the pre-war [illegible].

JUDGE HAZEN IS CANDIDATE

Municipal Judge Files for Re-election on Non-Partisan Ballot.

With the Aug. 6 deadline for filing petitions of candidacy for village, township, school board and judicial positions only three weeks distant, but three candidates have filed with the board of elections. Candidates for these offices are not chosen by primary election, but must submit petitions to the board to signify their candidacy. Ballots will be non-partisan.

The three men who have filed petitions are Howard McCurdy, candidate for reelection as Marion township trustee; Kenneth [illegible] candidate for reelection as Marion township clerk, and Judge S. D. Horen, for reelection as Marion municipal judge.

Seven villages in the county each will elect a mayor, clerk, treasurer and six members of council. Two members of the Marion county board of education and three members of the Marion city board of education will be elected, along with two or three board members for each of 13 school districts in the county.

Mrs. Nora Fetter, clerk of the board, gave a reminder that those intending to vote in the fall election may register with the board of elections now. She said about 40 persons registered early this week, thinking that the registration deadline set in Columbus also applied to Marion county. Though Marion county's deadline is Oct. 6, it will save time to register now, Mrs. Fetter pointed out.

Time and Trouble Necessary To Get Flood Controls Started

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, July 19 — You want a little flood control in your neighborhood or for your town? It'll take time and trouble.

Start with your congressman. Lots of congressmen try to get flood control jobs for their district.

James Marlow

Flood control for a district, besides stopping a flood, means government money spent there, and jobs.

The big, national flood control plans are worked out by the U. S. Corps of Engineers on orders from congress.

But if you—you means a group—want your pet idea included in, or added to, the national plans, this is how you go about it:

1. You tell your congressman. He digs around in congress to get some action started.

Action at This Stage

2. Generally, at this stage, you get action. Congress tells the U. S. engineers to make a check on your idea.

3. The engineers give it a quick once-over to see whether it looks good at all or is just another idea for spending government money.

4. If the engineers think your request has merit, they tell congress.

5. This means more milling around in congress which probably will tell the engineers to dig deeper.

6. Back go the engineers to your place. They make a better check this time. They may even hold hearings so people can talk for or against it.

7. Then the engineers report back to congress on the hearings and what they second check shows.

Congress Mills Around

8. More milling around in congress. If congress thinks maybe something should be done with your idea, the engineers are told to dig still deeper.

9. Now the engineers go to work and figure out how much the flood control for you will cost, how long it will take to do. Maybe they'll hold more hearings right in your home town.

10. After this third going over, the engineers draw up a final report for congress and send it there.

11. This final report to congress is turned over to a committee which handles flood control.

12. The committee holds hearings so people for and against your idea can speak their piece.

Committee Makes Report

13. Then, if the committee thinks the engineers' flood control plan for you should be carried out, it tells the house and senate so.

14. If the house and senate vote for it, the plan for you is included in a big bill that okays a number of flood control plans.

15. The engineers now are all set to go to work, except for this: They can't do the job unless congress votes money for it. Approving a job and voting money for it are two different things.

16. So then the appropriations committees in congress hold hearings on your plan to see whether they'll okay money for it.

17. If the appropriations committees approve, they tell house and senate. Usually house and senate follow the committee recommendations.

18. Once the money is voted, the engineers have a clear field to go ahead and set up some flood control for you.

Not Precise Outline

The outline given here may not be followed precisely in every case but it gives the picture of how a flood control plan is worked out.

Congress tells the engineers to make a first check on an average of about 300 flood control requests a year.

But less than one-third of them ever reach the final stage where they're considered worth while enough to be carried out.

There are a lot of slips between getting congress to vote for a flood control plan and then getting congress to vote money for it.

Congress approved some flood control plans as much as 40 years ago but still hasn't voted money to carry them out.

BETHANY GRADUATE TAKES COACHING JOB

George C. Whitehead Not Yet Assigned to Duties.

The second Marion coaching assignment within the week has been announced by school officials.

George C. Whitehead, 35, graduate of Bethany college in West Virginia and coach of Licking county championship football and basketball teams at Alexandra last season is the latest addition to the Marion coaching staff.

Mr. Whitehead has not yet been given specific duties, D. N. Bohyer, Harding athletic director, said today.

At Bethany college Whitehead was a member of both the football and basketball teams. His home town is Wallsburg, W. Va.

Besides his coaching experience, Whitehead has been active in social service work and during the war was employed by Curtiss Wright in Columbus.

He is married and looking for a home here.

48 COUNTY STUDENTS ENROLLED IN O.S.U.

This Area Helps Boost Summer Enrollment to 12,000.

An enrollment of more than 12,000 students is being reported for the summer quarter at Ohio State university, the greatest number for this quarter in the history of the school, according to a report received from the university. Included in this number are 49 from Marion and a number of others from nearby communities. Last summer there were 11,483 students enrolled, the school reports.

The spring quarter honor list of the university's college of engineering, which includes the names of freshmen with averages of "B" or better, is also being announced by the junior dean of the college. Included are four Marion people, William Elmer Edwards, Richard Christian Gast, Donald Frederick Haskell, and James Eugene Sloan, two Galion students, John Anthony Jenkins and Glen Harry Sherer, and two from Marysville, Edmund Vance Augenstein and Elbert Morgan Sawyer.

Those persons from Marion enrolled at the university for the summer quarter are: George A. Beam, James M. Breitinger, Marlon E. Burton, Gerald M. Chappell, William R. Clevenger, Jane A. Packer with Slick Pen Proves Meat Lower Than During OPA

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 18—You meat eaters will be interested to know that chuck roast and hamburger cost less today than under Chet Bowles' OPA price controls.

This information raised some eyebrows in senatorial circles, but Dr. Robert J. Eggert of Chicago (who produced it) stuck by his guns: all right, meat cleavers.

As associated director of marketing for the American Meat institute, the Doc was clad appropriately for his grilling by the lawmakers in a suit the color of a brindle calf and a tie the exact shade of a raw beefsteak. Take hamburger, said he.

Figures Tax In

When a housewife had to slip the butcher red coupons as well as cash under the Bowles regime, Dr. Eggert said, she paid a legal 29.4 cents for one pound of hamburger. Her husband paid another eight cents a pound for it in the form of a packers' subsidy taken from his income taxes.

Of course, said Sen. Ralph E. Flanders of Vermont, the lady buying the hamburger didn't know about that eight cents.

"No, she didn't," agreed Dr. Eggert, "but there it was, anyhow. And then she paid another 6.6 cents overcharge on her pound of hamburger and . . ."

"What?" demanded Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, chairman of the joint economic report committee.

Yep, the Doc said, he'd sent out shoppers in 11 cities during OPA's heyday and 6.6 cents was the average illegal nick given the housewives' pocketbooks by the butchers.

Some Less, Some More

"Some butchers didn't charge so much above ceiling, but some charged a great deal more," Dr. Eggert added. "And we believe that 6.6-cent figure is very conservative. So the 29.4-cent ceiling price, the eight-cent subsidy and the 6.6-cent overcharge brought the cost of a pound of hamburger to 44 cents, retail."

Today, he said, hamburger in the same 11 cities is 40.4 cents a pound without hocus-pocus. The same formula—let us cheer—makes chuck roast cost half a cent a pound less than it did during the war.

All other kinds of meat, and pork chops in particular, cost more now than they used to, even by the figures of the meat men. Dr. Eggert didn't mention pork chops in his speech, but he did submit a stack of charts. These showed that Bowles priced pork chops at 37.5 cents a pound, that the subsidy was 5.6 cents, and that the average overcharge was 4.1 cents for a total of 47.2 cents. Today pork chops cost 70.6 cents a pound and I'll take the latter because it is cheaper.

Sen. Taft Agrees

Sen. Taft agreed, though he didn't exactly put it that way. He wanted to know how come the cost of meat has soared 100 per cent since 1939, while the overall average cost of living is up only 50 per cent.

Dr. Eggert said there were many reasons, but the main one is that people have more money than they used to. They're spending it for beefsteaks. He said, in fact, that the price of meat for many years has varied almost exactly in ration with the size of American payrolls.

"But the price itself is a rationer of product," he added. He's telling me. Meat has been rationed around my house lately more strictly than Bowles ever dared. Some militant ladies here are organizing a buy-no-meat week. And a hamburger with all my favorite [illegible] costs 40 cents.

Dr. Eggert said he [illegible] prices might drop a little [illegible] but I'm afraid by then I'll [illegible] confirmed vegetarian.

Court News

Two Jury Trials

Two suits were tried by jury before common pleas judge Paul D. Smith Thursday.

Z. R. Kinney who was represented by Attorney Hugh E. Kirkwood Jr. sought a judgement of $167.50 from Ralph Hazlett for use and occupancy of a residential property in Prospect township. A directed verdict was returned in favor of the defendant who was represented by attorney Homer Johnson. The verdict was brought in shortly before 11:30 a. m.

In a brief session held in the afternoon, Flossie Selter who was represented by attorney Carter Patton, brought action against Bessie Ladd, administratrix, and others, to set aside the will of Katie Powell. A verdict favoring the defendants who were represented by Carhart and Carhart, was returned by the same jury that had heard the previous suit.

The jury comprised Roy Holdridge, Thelma Swisher, C. C. Holliday, Karl Dune, Abbie Myers, W. R. Reichenstein, Roy Brewer, Lester Allen, Fred Smith, Ruth Martin, Hazel Prichard and Florence Bowles.

Sparks from a bonfire ignited a small building at the Henry Draper residence, 325 Owens street, resulting in approximately $10 damage, firemen reported today. Firemen from the East Mark street station and quad truck from Central station responded to the alarm at 12:58 p. m.

Magazine Features Quaker Oats Co. Plant in Marion

Production of canned dog food by the Ken-L-Products Division of the Quaker Oats Company, makers of Ken-L-Ration produced in the Marion plant, is featured in an article appearing in the current issue of the company publication, "The Quaker."

Production capacity of Ken-L-Ration in the two dog food division plants, one of which is located in 1171 West Center street, is listed at nearly 30,000 cases a week.

The Quaker company entered the dog food business in 1942, purchasing the Rockford, Ill., plant of Chappel Brothers Inc., makers of Ken-L-Ration, the original canned dog food. Three years later, the local plant was purchased. Good business conditions and community cooperation, both in Marion and Rockford, are acknowledged in the article which expresses the company hope to continue being good neighbors in both communities.

Also feature in the article entitled "It's a Dog's Life," are photographs taken of the various breeds at the Ken-L-Products experimental kennels. Shown are groups of Dalmatians, miniature schnauzers and bulldogs.

Among the more than 90 dogs at the kennel are 17 different breeds. Testing and research is carried on under the supervision of a professional kennel master and dog handler, George Hesse, of Rockford. Hess is pointed out as having first worked with canines in a police dog training school in Europe after the close of the first World war. Since then he has been a professional handler and kennel master in this country. He joined the Quaker company in 1942.

Army Enlistments Now Open to Negroes

The restriction on enlistment of Negroes has been lifted by the War Department, Major Lee Burnham of the U. S. Army recruiting station, here, announced today.

This was done in order to implement the Gillem Board recommendation concerning the maintenance of 10 per cent Negro strength in the Army. The U. S. Army Recruiting Service will be the only agency or department authorized to enlist Negroes. Upon enlistment a colored soldier may have a choice of assignment, of either Army Air Force or Regular Army, unassigned.

The initial quota allocated to Ohio under this program, is: for air force assignment, 300, for the ground forces, 90.

TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Howard Wharton, employe of the Stewart Construction Co., was injured in a fall from the roof of the new Scherff Furniture store on South Prospect street on June 5, will be removed from City hospital Saturday morning to his home at 615 East Farming street.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Fashion experts' skirts will be pinched at the waistline next fall. . . . Furthermore I know the fellow most apt to pinch them.

But the sensation of the fashion show is the "violin silhouette." . . . Every girl a Stradivarius.

The stout girls, of course, will have to settle for a cello shape. . . . Jolly good cellos.

And the big ones never will be anything but string basses.

In fact I knew a girl who could knot four strings, pull them through her toes, put the loose ends in her mouth and fool Petrillo.

Anyhow, the experts say that the short, short skirt is outdated. That has been my experience. . . . The short skirt is out. . . . dated every night.

FAMILY REUNIONS

LOVELL-BARNES

The twenty-seventh annual Lovell-Barnes family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Shoemaker in Ashley. Rose Smothers and Edgar Shoemaker were reelected president and vice president, respectively, and Miss Shirley Smothers was elected secretary. A program of recitations and songs was given by the children. The 1948 reunion will be held at the Delbert Hart home in Marengo on the second Sunday in July.

TEAM ENTERS LEAGUE

ASHLEY—The Ashley Girls' baseball team, sponsored by Thomas Elliott of the Ashley confectionery, has entered the Sunbury baseball league. They will play there every Tuesday night, weather permitting. All girls who wish to play will meet at the school building Monday night for baseball practice.

There are no real estate taxes. There is no mayor or elected town council.

There isn't so much as a police court or a lawyer in town.

The two-cell city jail never has held a civilian prisoner.

Paint Jobs No Worry

There's no worry for householders about what color to paint their homes. It's all done for them—but without consultation on their own color tastes. The town administrators launched a city-wide program of painting every home and building in varied blending colors (there has been some eyebrow raising over how pea green slipped in under the guise of harmony).

For operating the town and seven atomic plants of the Hanford Engineering Works, General Electric Company receives (in addition to all costs) a fee of $1 from the government.

"Richland days" at the end of the summer will be in celebration of the town's second full year of "public" existence.

It is a government-built and company-operated community, but General Electric administrators say they are trying to keep it from assuming the appearance of a "company town."

Officials explain the above average birth rate by the fact that primarily young people were drawn to the project; families were not broken up during the war and they were economically secure.

Citizens Hand-Picked

The absence of crime is attributed to the hand-picking of the citizenry. No one is admitted to residence unless he is employed on the project or in one of the community services.

A highly active Junior Chamber of Commerce, which stepped into community affairs leadership in the wartime absence of any municipal authority, is credited with a big role in avoiding the juvenile problem which has plagued so many war industry cities.

The J. C. C. converted a dormitory into a "teen age club" which pecks in the young folks, has a full-time paid director and is almost self-supporting from its own snack bar. The club project figured prominently in Richland's winning of the national Junior Chamber's second prize for a small town youth activities program.

The community is without real estate taxes because it is wholly on a government reservation and all buildings are part of the project.

Rent Is Cheap

Rents run from $27.50 a month for a furnished one-bedroom prefabricated residence to $84 for the best type of four-bedroom home, furnished, and $87 for the same type unfurnished. Rentals include everything from electricity to garbage collection.

They even include two kinds of water. The regular water system is from wells. The water for lawn-sprinkling is from the river.

New schools under the new expansion program will help to meet the squeeze of the heavy "new crop" of school age C. F. Barnes, the company administration's executive for community activities, says that the number of children of nursery age the last year was close to 600, which is just about the 4-year high school total.

The atomic energy commission has to worry about developing and controlling atomic energy and also has such problems as approving school construction and deciding whether sectarian groups should be granted leases for construction of their own churches and schools.

Under wartime pressure public services were kept to a minimum. Town planners of the Du Pont Company, which built and operated the Hanford Works and Richland during the war, decided what was needed in the way of business establishments to meet essential needs.

Another policy which has remained since the war is the assessment of most rentals on a percentage of gross business.

The problem of whether the town should be thrown wide open to "free enterprise," with businesses free to come in and go their own building is something which awaits decision when the community gets over its growing pains.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Trichinosis

Prevention of trichinosis is so easy that it is a pity for anybody to contract it. And, yet, this condition, which at best means a long, unpleasant illness, occurs fairly often, simply because people are not careful enough about cooking pork thoroughly.

Trichinosis comes almost entirely from the eating of pork infested with the parasite known as Trichinella spiralis. Either long and thorough cooking, or freezing at zero degrees Fahrenheit for 72 hours will kill all parasites. But unless the housewife knows the exact conditions under which the meat has been frozen, she will do better to play safe and cook all pork until the last tinge of pink has disappeared.

The symptoms of trichinosis have been studied by Dr. Robert E. Ober, of Massachusetts.

Within three to five days after eating contaminated pork, such symptoms as sickness to the stomach, vomiting, pain in the abdomen, and diarrhea may develop. In this stage of the condition the disorder is sometimes mistaken for an attack of grippe, acute kidney inflammation, rheumatic fever, or food poisoning.

In many instances, if disturbances of the stomach or bowel occur, a diagnosis of trichinosis is not made until later, because the symptoms are much like those of various abdominal disorders. The larvae are carried to the small blood vessels in the lung, to the heart, and the arteries in other parts of the body. They also pass into the eyelids, the diaphragm between the chest and abdomen, and the various muscles of the body. The worms then become encysted within the muscles and remain alive for many years. Encysted means that the worms are surrounded by a membrane or capsule.

Within ten to fourteen days after eating contaminated pork, if no stomach or bowel symptoms have occurred, the infestation may be shown by aching or tenderness in the muscles, chills, cough, swelling of the eyelids and a skin rash. Fever develops and may reach 105 Fahrenheit. These symptoms may continue for from five to seven weeks.

As a general rule, there is an increase in the number of white cells in the blood, and the kind of white cells known as eosinophils are also increased in number.

Compulete recovery ordinarily occurs, but pains in the various muscles may sometimes persist for a long time.

Unfortunately, there does not seem to be any treatment of this condition which is of any particular value. However, the disorder can be prevented if all pork is either thoroughly cooked or frozen.

Army Captain Returns From Japan with Siberian Sled Dog

For the next 40 days or so if you see a young man in an Army captain's uniform with a coal black dog following at heel, you can be pretty certain the young man is Capt. G. R. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wilson of 518 North Prospect street and the black dog is "Sidney," a full-blood Siberian husky sled dog.

Both arrived here last Tuesday from Japan.

Capt. Wilson, a paratrooper, fought in the European theater of operations, after entering service in October of 1941. At the close of hostilities he was assigned to Sapporo, Japan as liaison officer of the 11th Airborne division and has been there for more than a year. He is home now on a 45-day leave and expects to report to a California base upon termination of the leave.

First Pet Dies

Capt. Wilson first owned a sister to his present dog, but an epidemic of distemper swept through the Japanese post killing his dog, together with a large number of pets owned by other men stationed there.

After the loss of his first pet Capt. Wilson brought friendly verbal pressure to bear on his interpreter who then owned the dog, later named "Sidney." The Yankee persuasion won out and the dog changed masters.

The animal is about 15 months old now and has been with Capt. Wilson since it was a puppy. The Siberian sled dogs are from an island to the north of Japan which is populated by the Russians.

The dog was shipped home by boat, landing at a California port where she was examined by a veterinary before being shipped home. Capt. Wilson came home by plane, landing in Hawaii where he spent 10 days before flying the last lap to California. There he reclaimed his dog, checking her through in the baggage car of the train which he took to the home.

Gentle and Friendly

Mrs. Wilson says the dog is extremely gentle and friendly. Although she will come to heel perfectly with her master, she doesn't do as well with the members of the family. Mrs. Wilson says when a leash is snapped on her collar the dog apparently reverts instinctively to arctic sled dog days and starts pulling. The only other trait she has shown according to Capt. Wilson is the manner in which she will attack another animal if disturbed while eating. The dog will crouch and spring for the under part of the throat, as all huskies do.

When Capt. Wilson reports for duty after his leave he expects to take the dog with him to wherever he is stationed.

CHAIN GANG OUSTER BLAMED FOR BREAK

By The Associated Press

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 19—A county grand jury has blamed abolition of Georgia's ill-famed chain gangs for the mass escape attempt last week in which eight Negro convicts were slain by officers' pistol and shotgun fire.

In a special 900-word presentment yesterday, the jury contended the violence would have been avoided if the prisoners had been wearing chains and stripes.

The report absolved Warden H. G. Worthy and five guards for blasting away as the Negroes sought to flee the 12-foot barbed wire prison stockade in southeast Georgia after a day of disorders.

Georgia chain gangs, made famous by Robert Elliot Burns in his book and movie, "I Am a Fugitive from a Georgia ChainGang," were outlawed after a storm of national criticism resulted in a penal reform movement under the administrations of former Governors E. D. Rivers and Ellis Arnall.

During the same period several deaths in seven-by-seven foot "sweat boxes" led to abandonment of that punishment.

The 23-member Glynn county grand jury late yesterday concluded a three-day investigation into the renewal of prison violence in the state.

Two Marion Navy Men On Cruise to Europe

Midshipman Thomas P. McGinnis of the Annapolis Naval Academy and Thomas C. Trafzer, a member of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps at Cornell university, are participating in training cruises to Europe this summer.

McGinnis sailed last month on the aircraft carrier USS Randolph and Trafzer sailed on the battleship USS Wisconsin.

This is the first time since 1937 that midshipmen have participated in a European cruise.

They will visit Rosyth, Scotland, Copenhagen, Denmark; Oslo, Norway, Goteborg, Sweden, and the English ports of London, Portsmouth, Weymouth, Plymouth, Greenock and Woolwich.

McGinnis is the son of Ivan McGinnis of 480 South State street and Trafzer the son of C. W. Trafzer of 489 McKinley street.

Final Plans Made For Canning Clinic

Final plans are being made for the food preservation clinic to be held Tuesday at the Ohio Public Service terminal building on West Center street by Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, home service director of the Ohio Public Service Co. and Miss Mary Faye McMillan, county home demonstration agent.

Step by step procedures in food preservation, both canning and freezing, will be shown in films, "As You Like Them," dealing with canning and "Frozen Freshness," giving ideas on home freezing. The hours of the clinic are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

In addition to the food preservation films and talks Miss Kleinmaier and Miss McMillan will conduct tests on pressure canner gauges.

The canning film will be shown at 9:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. and the freezing film at 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m.

RUHR COAL CAUSES AID-EUROPE SPLIT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—A three-sided disagreement among the western Allies over increasing Ruhr coal and industrial production today clouded prospects of success for the Marshall plan to revive Europe's economy.

It was the first time since the recovery proposal was laid down by Secretary of State Marshall on June 5 that major disagreement had appeared in the ranks of the western nations.

They have stood firm otherwise in their determination to make the plan succeed despite vigorous Russian opposition.

The disagreements were these

►Britain has rejected, after first accepting, an American invitation to a conference here beginning next week on boosting Ruhr coal production as one of the essential steps in European recovery. Marshall himself has said that an increase in coal is a primary requirement for making Europe well.

►The other disagreement arises from French objection to any kind of increase in the general level of German industry now. The French do not oppose greater coal production but argue that if steel output is to be boosted it should be accomplished by removing the Ruhr plants to France and thus avoiding what the French consider a buildup of German war potentials again.

Patrolmen Report 2 Motorists Fined

Two persons arrested by the state highway patrol for violation of traffic laws were fined yesterday, patrolmen report.

Russell Ross, 20, of Marengo, charged with reckless operation on route 42 near Mt. Gilead Thursday, pleaded guilty in Mt. Gilead Mayor Booher's court and was fined $15 and costs.

Harold C. Wiesel, 19, of Providence, R. I., pleaded guilty to a charge of crossing a freshly painted center line after being warned not to do so, and was fined $25 and costs in Upper Sandusky Mayor Milligan's court. After workmen told him not to cross the line he started driving back and forth across it in zig zag fashion, patrolmen said.

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Madlyn Marie Thomas and Edward Sawyer which took place Saturday, July 12 in Wesley Methodist church. Only the immediate families and close friends were present for the double ring ceremony read at 2:45 o'clock by the pastor, Dr. Edwin A. Brown. Preceding the service Mrs. Mildred Hill played a program of organ music including "Oh, Promise Me," "Liebestraum," "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

For the ceremony the bride wore a light blue street dress with a large white hat and carried a white Bible covered with yellow roses and showered with white satin ribbon and gypsophila. Miss Geneva Kauffman, bridesmaid, wore a pink costume with black accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's brother, Carl Sawyer, was the best man. Following the ceremony the couple left on a wedding trip to Battle Creek, Mich.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Collins of Richwood. A graduate of the Richwood High school, she has been making her home at 452 Blaine avenue in Marion and is employed at Uhler's. The bridegroom served three years with the Army railroad engineers, a part of which was in the European theater. He is a trainman with the Erie Railroad Co. and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sawyer of 441 Silver street. The couple will make their home at 529 Windsor street.

100 MARION CO. GRANGERS TO RECEIVE 6TH DEGREE

To Attend Ceremony at Marysville Next Wednesday

Approximaely 100 Grange members in Marion county will go to Marysville Wednesday to receive the sixth degree of the Grange when it is conferred by officers of the Ohio State Grange, Elmer Williams, deputy master in Marion county, announced today.

The meeting, which will be held in the Marysville High school auditorium, is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. A half hour program of entertainment will open the evening's activities, and the initiation ceremonies will start at 8:30. Misses Jane and Jean Uncapher will give a vocal number, accompanied by Mrs. Beaver Bricker of the Mt. Olive Grange. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Williams will take part in the initiation work.

In addition to the Grange members from Marion county, members from Hardin, Delaware, Madison, Logan, Champaign and Franklin counties, will be present. A total of 800 candidates are expected to receive the sixth degree. The meeting is one of a series of 15 being held in the state in preparation for the National Grange which will meet in Columbus in November.

POLICEMAN'S SLAYER GUILTY AT DAYTON

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., July 19—Julius Emrich, 34-year-old former convict, was convicted yesterday of first degree murder charges in the May 16 slaying of Dayton Patrolman Herman Drexler.

A jury of seven women and five men recommended mercy. Emrich had entered a plea of innocent and a secondary plea of insanity.

Judge Calvin Crawford temporarily postponed pronouncement of sentence. The mercy recommendation carries a mandatory penalty of life imprisonment.

Drexler was slain and Patrolman Jack Tatom wounded in the hip when they discovered two men attempting to burglarize a hardware store in the early morning hours.

Tatom captured Emrich, the former convict put a gun against the wounded officer while he lay on the ground, wrestling the gun from him. Tatom bludgeoned him into submission by using it as a club.

Charles Ames, 64, who has spent a total 31 years in prison, now is awaiting trial under a first degree indictment for the Drexler slaying.

Moisture Apparently All on the Outside

Circus day in Marion seems to have been very dry despite the rain. During the whole 24 hours yesterday and last night not an arrest was made by Marion police and the docket for the municipal court was clear for the morning. Usually Saturday is a busy day for the court for arrests for intoxication are numerous Friday nights following payday at several local plants.

30 Members of Marion Unit To Go to Camp Perry.

Some 30 members of Co. C, 166th Infantry, O.N.G. will assemble at the armory on West Church street tomorrow morning at 5:30 a. m. to make last minute preparations before leaving for Camp Perry, O., for summer camp.

Headed by Capt. Robert Melby, the men will leave the armory by truck at 7 a. m. for the camp where they will be stationed for a two-week period. The Marion unit will return Aug. 3.

In former years three separate periods were held annually but this year, the camp has been sufficiently enlarged to accommodate all the activated units at one time.

4 Drown in Pennsylvania As 2 Boats Sink in River

By The Associated Press

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., July 19—Hundreds of searchers probed along the swollen Swatara creek near here today for the bodies of four persons who drowned in the turbulent waters when two boats capsized.

An Oklahoma man and his two sons perished yesterday when their rowboat overturned after plunging over a dam, carrying to the same fate a Middletown man who attempted their rescue. Two others escaped.

The dead were:

Kenneth D. Wood, 41; his sons, Phillip, 13, and Donald, 10, all of Tulsa, and Harold Mansberger, 34, who tried to save them.

Jerry Wood, 14, escaped after clinging to the overturned boat for more than an hour as did Huber Minsberger, 32, a brother of the drowned Middletown man.

"Red World Revolution" Seen At Core of European Trouble

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

That was a stern warning regarding the dangers of the European crisis which Secretary of State Marshall gave us in his address before the conference of governors at Salt Lake City.

"There is no blinking the fact that this country now stands at a turning point in its relations to its traditional friends among the nations of the world," said Marshall. "Either it must finish the task of assisting those countries to adjust themselves to the changed demands of a new age, or it must reconcile itself to seeing them move in directions which are consistent neither with their own traditions nor with those of this country.

DewittMackenzie

"In the latter case, the United States would be faced with a radical alteration of its own position in the world. I ask you to consider most carefully the implications of such a development for the future prosperity and security of our country."

Details Not Filled In

The general has left us to dot the I's and cross the T's, but that's not difficult. If we don't help the still free European democracies to regain their feet, they will be brought under Russia's Communist domination. Thus America will be cut off from her old friends. Her security, both economically and militarily, will be weakened.

But that's only a snap-shot of the threat. Europe's economic crisis is by no means due solely to the ravages of war. A fundamental fact which a lot of folk fail to realize is that Europe in particular, and the Eastern Hemisphere in general, are in the throes of the Communist world-revolution which was projected back in the days of the Bolshevist upheaval of 1917 and only now is in full swing.

Professional observers even before the last war, recognized the idea of world-revolution as a cardinal goal of Russian Communism. It was held up pending the strengthening of the Soviet Union economically and militarily. This was achieved in the successive five year plans carried out by Marshall Stalin.

Foresaw War

Meantime, observers were giving the Moscow regime credit for foreseeing that another general war was brewing. This war would provide the crisis which would be favorable to the inauguration of the world drive for the expansion of Communism under direction of the Comintern in Moscow.

Well, the war came. Russia and Germany signed their non-aggression pact and, with this in his pocket, Hitler lashed out. Then he attacked the Soviet Union—which wasn't according to Hoyle. However, although Russia suffered grievously herself, with Allied aid she emerged strong enough to undertake a wholesale expansion of her sphere of influence. This has resulted in the establishment of Communist controlled governments throughout eastern Europe — and the expansion continues.

Naturally all Moscow's activities have been dominated by the central idea of spreading Communism and thereby strengthening Russia's own position. You see that in the methods employed in establishing domination over the countries of eastern Europe, and in the obstructions created in the United Nations and in the various European conferences. You see it in Moscow's refusal to cooperate in the economic rehabilitation of Europe.

So the greatest problem of the United States and the other democracies is to deal with this Red world revolution. One method is to put weak nations on their feet so that they can withstand the political attack, and that is the immediate objective in Europe. However, the revolution isn't confined to Europe, though that's where we notice it most. Its tentacles reach around the globe, as anyone can see with half an eye if he looks about him.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED

GALION, July 19—Announcement was made this week of the wedding of Miss Joy Marie Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardner of Anderson, Ind., and Clyde William Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Hall of Galion. The ceremony was performed in Greenup, Ky., July 7 by S. F. Greenlaft, justice of the peace. Mr. Hall is employed at the Marathon station in Galion, and Mrs. Hall is employed by the Kruger store.

SOMEHOW the sky seems bluer and the sun shines brighter when you and this Buick are enjoying the day together.

Somehow the sudden summer shower seems more of a lark, less of a bother, when it's pattering on the snug shelter this tidy number throws up automatically at your touch on a control.

Somehow autumn air is more winey, swirling winter snows more fun when your choice is a Buick — and a Convertible as tight and all-weather-ready as this one.

Maybe it's because your style sense tells you these sleek lines and this rich treatment are going to stay the fairest of the automotive fair.

Maybe it's because you find, in the big Fireball straight-eight under your trendle foot, an ever-eager, ever-lively companion-in-adventure that acknowledges no peer for life and lift and velvet-smoothness.

It could be the rare and pleasurable smallness given an open car by good, solid Buick construction. It could be, simply, that here at last you find size and ability and smartness and finish to match your dreams of a perfect travel mate.

All we know is that this is one of the standout favorites in a line of cars that stands out as the most wanted in America.

So when good friends come to us asking, "How do I get one of these snappy Buick Convertibles?" our full and forthright answer is always the same:

Sign up for one, sir — soon as you can. The sooner we have your firm order for one, the sooner you start climbing up our customer list.

And we promise you: You'll mount that ladder equally fast whether or not you have a car to trade.

When better automobiles are built, BUICK will build them

SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1947

Ohio Hangover

THERE'S never a dull moment in Ohio's liquor department. Now a special senate committee recommends that a grand jury look into the reason the department has five years' supply of blackberry brandy, 10 years' supply of a liqueur and enough other slow-moving brands to keep shelves filled well into the 1950's.

Dale Dunifon, the new liquor director, reports some firms have agreed to take back excess supplies, but warehouses still bulge with brands nobody wants, least of all customers. Ohio had $29,758,276 worth of liquor on Jan. 25, compared with $2,679,798 in 1941. The committee says three weeks' supply, or about $2,500,000 worth, is an ample backlog.

A grand jury should look into what inducements, if any, were offered to lay in such excessive supplies. The committee says it is difficult to believe such errors are an honest mistake. As for Mr. Dunifon, if he can keep the liquor department a scandal-free, smoothly-operating unit once it gets straightened out, he will be performing a feat that looks easy from a distance, but isn't, to judge from past performances.

Prices Are Too High, Too Low

THE senate banking committee thinks there should be a congressional investigation of prices that are too high. The boys might as well save their time. Before they finished investigating prices that are too high, they'd probably have to start investigating prices that are too low.

Prices are too high, no doubt about it, but the reason is hard to pin down. Sometimes it seems as if prices are too high because they aren't too low. If they were too low, we'd be trying to boost them. But because they're too high, we're trying to drag them down.

No one knows when prices were just right. Maybe it occurred at some obscure hour in the night-time once, like the beginning of the summer solstice. But sometime prices must have hit a golden mean on their way up or down. There are, after all, days when the temperature, which also goes up and down, seems to be just right—for people who feel that way about it.

Anyway, prices won't stay high forever. They will come down—and down—and down. The United States will resume worrying about a leisure-time problem, an acute situation back in the 30's. There will be a buy-now campaign to give apathetic business a jab in its dragging rear end. The White House will issue a strong statement against hoarding. Salesmen will cut each other's throats for a dollar's worth of business. No reasonable offers will be refused. The best brains of the country will be harnessed and will try to pull up the price level. There will be a congressional investigation to find out why prices are too low.

In the meantime, perhaps congress will have discovered why prices are too high, aside from the fact everybody and his brother are charging what the traffic will bear—which is more than most of us feel we can pay.

Brave New World

CONCLUDING its first year, the committee to frame a world constitution reports it has assembled 4,000 pages of data and is ready to begin publishing a monthly magazine. Its chairman, Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, says: "We have at most three years for our civilization to dedicate itself to the proposition that men are men before they are Englishmen, businessmen, workingmen or Americans."

The committee believes what the world needs is a central government with jurisdiction over every nation—not a league of individual sovereign states. In making a blueprint for world order, the committee is conducting detailed surveys of the interior structures of all major nations and hopes to have a world charter ready in the fall.

When the charter is ready is when the real work will start. If the committee has found a way to eliminate a nation's nationalism, it can turn to simple matters like the trisection of the angle, the quadrature of the circle, the elixir of life, perpetual motion and the transmutation of lead to gold.

Why Take a Loss?

WITH 67,000,000 cases of canned food in warehouses, the nation's canners have taken their troubles to congress. They want the government to take some of the surplus off their hands for shipment to Europe.

They say there's no market for standard pack foods when buyers have money for the highest quality. The result is that 8 to 14 months' supply is in warehouses with the new canning season at hand.

Representative Andersen of the house food subcommittee asked if the canners had tried cutting prices to move their surpluses. Some had tried but not enough to whittle down the surplus. Price cutting is the old-fashioned way.

The canners were resorting to an expedient that has become popular in the last 15 years. When you have troubles, take them to the government. It'll find a way. Nobody will notice one more subsidy, one more outright grant, when they tot up the budget. Why take a loss if it can be passed along.

Progressive Health Measure

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Taft Bill Called Best Answer to Government Proposal.

THE extraordinary usefulness of Robert A. Taft as a senator is shown not only by the variety of subjects about which he has constructive ideas, but by the fine balance of the bills he proposes. The Taft touch is the middle way between statism and pure individualism. This is especially shown in the national health bill, presented to the senate in January and now part of the unfinished business of the expiring session. It probably will not be acted on this year, but it is sure to be an issue next year.

Realizing that the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill is an intolerable piece of bureaucracy, Taft, with Senators Ball, Smith and Donnell, presented this plan as an alternative.

In principle, the Taft bill recognizes the duty of the state to provide medical and dental care for those unable to pay for it. To aid the states in fulfilling this duty, the federal government would provide $200,000,000 a year for five years for medical care and a total of $77,000,000 over five years for dental inspection and care. To strengthen the capacity of the federal government to administer this aid to states, the bill provides for the gathering together of several federal health agencies into one federal agency. The administrator of such an agency would be a doctor outstanding in the field of medicine.

Obligation Recognized

This bill recognizes that personal health is a public concern and that those who cannot afford decent medical care should be helped to get it. But to avoid the development of the theory that all should be entitled to free care, the principle of established need is included. This protects the private medical profession from competition with government medicine. The bill also recognizes that the state, not the federal government, is the proper agency to care for the indigent and unfortunate.

The bill makes generous provision for research and inspection, which are always a proper function of government.

No measure like the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill could ever succeed against the all but solid opposition of the medical profession. The Taft measure has already attracted the favorable support of doctors. The American Medical association, the National Physicians committee, many state medical associations and other agencies have approved it. It is bound to receive widespread attention in the months before the next session of congress.

May Be Major Issue

If the bill is not passed before the presidential nominating conventions, it may well become a major issue in the 1948 campaign. It would then be the Republican answer to the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill, which is almost certain to be a Democratic platform promise.

It is the habit of most advocates of a big Federal bureaucracy for medical care to call their plan "socialized medicine." This is a gross misrepresentation. Medicine has become more and more socialized with the passing of the years. Private hospitals, clinics, research foundations, health insurance plans and the like are all socialized medicine. They have cooperative, charitable and collective features. But they represent voluntary private effort. Socialized medicine is not necessarily government medicine. The surest way to destroy private collective medicine is to let people think the government will take over. The Taft bill represents the happy medium.

Here's a Bargain
In Gee-Eye Teeth

The war assets administration is endeavoring to find a market for 2,000,000 false teeth recently declared surplus by the Army.

It's a shame Messers. Taft and Hartley didn't hear about those earlier.

With them in their bill, we might have succeeded in putting the bite on John L.—instead of vice versa.

Incidentally, what did the Army expect to need with two million false teeth? Was there rock candy in its K-ration?

I can't figure it out unless maybe someone in the quartermaster corps owned stock in a mail order molar company.

There's not much market for surplus teeth, now that fruit jar drinking is a thing of the past.

But I've still got an idea of how the WAA may dispose of them—or aren't there that many Elks?

Daily Bible Thought

IT'S HARD TO GET RID OF FLYPAPER

"What Are the Hours?"

By FRANK TRIPP

IF YOU want to make a book on the future—one pretty sure to win—bet that the bright young men, the "what are the hours" boys, will end up with plenty of hours on their hands—and patches on their pants.

The idea that it's cute to skin through life by contributing just as little as possible to it comes from labor's work-dodging mania. This is not to be a discussion of that national problem. It's about a by-product — the shiftlessness of youth.

That full-grown men, with families on their hands, kid themselves into believing that idleness can improve the standard of living is, perhaps, somewhat their own business. That their example leads youth to idleness and a false philosophy of life is alarming to those who have given it thought.

* * *

In the past few months three fond parents sent their loving sons to me to take over my job. Each was deeply concerned about only two things. Neither had to do with years of drudgery to fit him for leadership. They all wanted to know how little they had to work and how much they could get for it.

None of the three was even glancing ahead to a day when uncounted willing hours would pay their reward. There wasn't one honest symptom of pride, eagerness or hope for a newspaper career. All they wanted was pay enough now, for a few hours work, to give them money to spend in the many hours they aim to loaf. This attitude is so prevalent that it is threatening many lines of business, some professions and even some trades wherein proficiency must be developed by sacrifice, diligence, and experience—in short, the hard way.

* * *

When the third in a row of these young leeches made his appearance I went to the mat with him.

"Why are you so worried about the hours you work?" I asked.

"Why shouldn't I?" he said. "Nobody works long hours any more."

"Oh, they don't, eh?" I replied. "You just follow the folks around who keep the wheels turning so others like you can work 40 hours a week or less and see how long they work. You don't want to learn the newspaper business. You want to join up with something or other that's got you to thinking that nobody works any more."

Then I told him that he belongs where pay and hours are the main objectives, where craftsmanship needs only mount to the level of the average, where the expert carries the botch on his back and the energetic carry the loafers.

I told him he didn't belong where hours are an investment in the future, where toil is the development of a career, where patience is the hope of science, invention and of humanity.

I told him that man ever gained leadership by watching the clock. That men get to the places he covets by working 60 and 70 hour weeks for long years; that they invest their time, don't squander it.

* * *

Two lads of equal ability may start out together at 20 and enter the same work. At 40 one may have twice the success of the other. By the calendar, both have been 20 years with a company or in a profession. By the clock one may gain twice the experience of the other, know twice as much, have twice the honors, earn twice the money. Because he spent twice the time on his job.

Experience is not the number of years a man has lived off of his vocation. It is the number of hours he has given to it.

America's "Baby Republic" Nearing 100

JOINING UN—At San Francisco in 1945, Liberia was represented by Vice President C. L. Simpson, signing the charter above.

DRESSED FOR THE ROLE—Liberia's President, William V. S. Tubman, wears the robes of a chief as he enters headquarters.

* * *

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—The tiny, Negro Republican of Liberia will be 100 years old July 26.

Situated on the west coast of Africa, Liberia owes its existence to a group of American statesmen who felt, as early as 1800, that American Negroes could find a new and better way of life in Africa.

Founded by one-time slaves, the little nation today looks with pride on its achievements during the war, when it produced more crude rubber than any other country except Ceylon.

In 1817 a group of influential Americans formed the American Colonization Society in Washington. Supreme Court Justice Bushrod Washington, a nephew of George Washington, was elected president and Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star Spangled Banner," vice president. Other influential men of "Who's Who" status joined the society.

One of the society's first acts was to sponsor the emigration to Africa of slaves who had achieved their freedom.

In 1820 the first contingent of 68 emigres left the United States for Sierra Leone, West Africa. They found it unsuitable for colonization and sailed south to Sherbro Island. Here 22 persons died, including all the white men in the party, three of whom were Colonization society agents.

Within a year another group had arrived from the states, and an expedition left the temporary settlement to travel south down the coast of Africa and find a permanent home.

Location Purchased

The expedition soon reached a likely-looking area next to the present site of Monrovia, capital of Liberia, and brought a coastal strip 130 miles long and some 40 miles deep, from the natives.

Those early settlers, it appears from all accounts, had it as tough as our own Mayflower clan. When the main contingent sailed south to inhabit the newly-acquired land, it was driven out by fierce native tribes and was forced to take refuge on a small island, afterwards named Providence Island, owned by a mulatto British trader.

Here the pioneers resolved to stay for the time being. Elijah Johnson, a leading colonist, voiced the thoughts of his fellows when he put foot on Providence Island and said "Two long years have I sought a home; here I have found one and here will I remain."

Seven months later, in August 1822, Jehudi Ashman made the trip from the states and took over virtual leadership of the struggling colony. By that time the settlers had fought off hostile native groups and established a "small community" on the mainland.

Slowly and tediously the colony grew. Each year back in Washington the Colonization society met to plan future emigrations. At the meeting in 1824 society members decided to call the new colony "Liberia," a name which it was agreed "denotes a settlement of persons made free."

And since President Monroe had given the enterprise his blessing, the "small community" was given the name of Monrovia.

Chartered in 1838

By 1838 Liberia had grown sufficiently to be chartered by the Colonization society as a commonwealth. The idea behind this move was to give the colony opportunity to gain experience in representative government. And shortly afterwards pressure grew in Liberia for complete freedom from the society.

A convention met to consider steps to be taken. On July 26, 1847, the convention issued a Declaration of Independence.

Delegates agreed that the form of government would be patterned after that of this country, and a flag was made resembling its basic design.

The Declaration of Independence went, in part, like this:

"We, the people of the Republic of Liberia, were originally the inhabitants of the United States of North America. The western coast of Africa was selected by American benevolence and philanthropy for our future home . . . Therefore, in the name of humanity and virtue and religion; in the name of the Great God, our common Creater and our common judge, we appeal to the nations of Christendom and . . . ask them that they will regard us with the sympathy and friendly consideration to which the peculiarities of our condition entitle us and extend to us that comity which marks the friendly intercourse of civilized and independent communities."

So Liberia became a free, independent republic. But not until 1862 did the United States recognize it as such. Liberia has already been recognized by Great Britain and France.

The period following U. S. recognition was a prosperous one for the Negro Republic. Liberian coffee commanded a high price and was the principal export staple for many years. Toward the close of the century it began to be supplanted throughout the world by Brazalian coffee.

Time and again the United States stood in the way of attempts to encroach on Liberian sovereignty.

Today some 2,500,000 people live in Liberia. The 100th anniversary of independence will be celebrated by a two-year-long exposition in which foreign nations have been invited to participate.

In the words of Liberian President William V. S. Tubman, the independence of this nation is an event to be celebrated with "just and modest pride."

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, July 19, 1937.

Approximately 125 county employes and their families attended the county employes' picnic held at the Augenstein grove. Miss Edith Eibling, deputy in the county auditor's office and president of the Court Officials and Employes association, was in charge of plans for the outing.

Misses Elizabeth and Patricia Stoll of South State street entertained with a bridge for Miss Louise Guthery, who was visiting here from Los Angeles, Calif.

George C. Daum, 68, carpenter, died suddenly of a heart ailment at his home on East Church street.

A son was born to Dr. and Mrs. Warren C. Sawyer of White Oaks Farm, in Lakeside hospital, Cleveland.

Approximately 70 men of Headquarters Co. and Co. D., U. S. National Guard, left for a two weeks' training period at Camp Perry. Officers from Marion attending camp were Lt. Walter E. Mathiot of Headquarters Co., 4th Battalion and Capt. Hubert L. Taylor, First Lt. Carl Ebert and Second Lt. Harmon Chapman of Co. D.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, July 19, 1927.

Frank A. Huber resigned as treasurer of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., ending official services with the company which began Jan. 5, 1891.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drake of North State street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schoenlaub, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Isaly, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Glosser and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Barnhart left on a week's trip on the lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson of Blaine avenue returned from a week's visit in New York City and New Haven, Conn.

The Avesta club was entertained by Mrs. Carl Duffey of Woodrow avenue.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Letters for Special Delivery

MR. TOM CLARK, U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR:

You will excuse it please if I seem a little balled up by some of the reasoning behind the accumulation of top secret atomic bomb stuff by a couple of former Army sergeants, the subsequent motion in calling them to account and the subsequent position to consider it a boyish prank over which nobody should get excited. First of all, while I have heard many GIs claim that Army sergeants were a dumb set, I still don't think any were so dumb they thought it okay to swipe top secret stuff at atomic bomb plants. Furthermore, I would like to hear more about the minimized danger from any atomic bomb leak to have the stuff back.

* * *

With everybody else in America grasping at the idea from radio, newspapers and public speakers that the slightest leaks in our atomic energy secrets might put an enemy in a position to blast us off the map, it looks funny to me that a couple of former sergeants in the U. S. Army with a truckload of data in their possession didn't seem any more concerned than if they had taken a wall calendar.

* * *

Am I being asked to think that the sergeants thought atomic energy was just something used to pep up night baseball games? Did they think a few hundred illegal snapshots and a satchel full of data plainly marked highly confidential were swell additions to a stamp collection?

* * *

Is there anything in their lawyer's claim that they were just souvenir hunters and if so I hope you won't mind me laughing at the idea that they were so innocent that they could not see the difference between some picture of pin-up girls and some photographs of atomic bomb experiments. Or that a couple of hundred pages torn out of secret scientific records made better souvenirs on the parlor shelf than a blank sheet or an army blanket.

* * *

I keep having a recurrent nightmare about a sergeant who steals all the data on our latest rocket planes and gives them to a Russian in a saloon, all the time thinking he has just picked up a few papers while directing KP duty and never suspecting they are anything but the wrappings off cigarets and bubble gum.

* * *

So will you please ease my state of mind? Tell me you don't think our Army during a crucial period in history had sergeants who couldn't see the key to national destruction from a souvenir postcard, a rare postage stamp or a lock of hair.

Quaveringly,
ELMER.

* * *

P. S.—The one that went to Princeton, taking a lot of dope with him but first stuffing a lot in a vault back home, interests me especially. If he was as dumb as he says how did he get into Princeton, it being admitted he had no football form? And if it is all as innocent as some people say, shouldn't we begin frisking freshmen rooms at Yale and Harvard now before it is too late and we wake up some day and find that a student at some university has kidnapped Dave Lilienthal and has him stuffed in a dormitory closet for use during the freshmen rushes?

"GIVE my regards to Bess the President said. We shook hands. I carried his words to Bess. She was not impressed."—From Jim Farley's story in Colliers.

"My best to Bess"
Did Franklin glow;
Said Bess, "Oh yes!
It looks like snow."

"The stadium organ was to have played 'When Irish Eyes Are Smiling'," writes Mr. Farley of the Chicago convention, "by way of a musical tribute to me, but the power mysteriously failed. Well-wishers of mine taxed Mayor Kelly with deliberately arranging the failure."

Maybe Roosevelt wanted "Sweethearts On a Dime But Strangers Now."

Well, Assault has now taken the lead from Stymie as the biggest thing on the race track financially. But it is still nip and tuck, and we have taken to following these two steeds the way some people follow stocks and bonds. To us Stymie is merely off a couple of points in a corrective setback. Assault staging a sharp rally which may or may not hold. But our broker tells us Stymie is better for the quick turnover while Assault is more to be recommended for the long pull.

Perspiring Freely

By TRUMAN TWILL

Whenever the humidity—it ain't the heat, it's the humidity—gets unbearable, we remember three jobs that make ordinary perspiring seem like a pleasure.

One was the first job we ever held down—glorified chore boy on a farm. It was an old-fashioned farm even in an old-fashioned time. One of its practices was to store wheat in sheaves, on top of the new hay in the big barn.

The chore boy's job was to lay out the sheaves in even rows on the hay, until they were packed in, clear to the slate roof. First, the sheaves were pitched off the wagon, to a catcher standing on the beam at the top of the mow. The catcher thereupon pitched them back under the eaves to the freely-perspiring—excuse my sweat—victim who was supposed to be agile enough to keep the flying sheaves from hitting him in the face.

That was the hottest place we ever worked—up close against that barn roof on a blistering hot day late in July, or perhaps early in August. It used to be a joke that the cured hay would be ruined by the salt water poured out on it by the oozing boy farmer.

The second hottest place we worked was a freight cars on a railroad siding in a lumber yard, crawling back to the end of the cars to swing the ends of the lumber so it could be shoved out the car door. There is no ventilation in the ends of freight cars. All of them had been dragged hundreds of miles, sealed tight, through broiling sunlight, and most of them had stood motionless for hours on heat-baked sidings. They used to complain about the wetness of the lumber when we got through perspiring over it.

The third hottest place, and by far the most disagreeable, all things considered, was a coal bin. Humidity in coal bins, due to their location in damp cellars, is something fearful and wonderful. At first, the temperature seems like a relief, if it's a hot day outside. Then the humidity sets in.

The bin job called for shoveling coal away from the end of the chute when customers had ordered enough coal to last all the next winter. The bins would be filled in the good old summertime, but to fill them to the top meant a lot of disagreeable work moving the coal after it came tumbling down the chute. The air was full of coal dust. The bozo on the wagon had very little consideration for the sucker down cellar who wanted to get the job done.

No one ever said so in just so many words, but they probably gave us the job because it wet down the coal with perspiration, saving them the trouble of doing it with a hose. And now, if there are no objections, we'll mop off our face with an old Turkish towel and get at the day's work.

Sinaiticus. It might seem . . . infinitely valuable posses- . . . every page of it has al- . . . been completely reproduced . . . and hundreds of cop- . . . to the great libraries . . . world, so that the original . . . themselves can have only . . . value. And it is in- . . . kind of sentiment . . . Christians to put half- . . . in these musty pages . . . men starve. Yet that is the . . . we are sometimes tempted to . . . our religion.

Now it is odd to find these . . . on the lips of Jesus. One of . . . emphases was "keep My . . . ." It is stated in the parables . . . reasserted in His final teach- . . . When, in the last conversa- . . . He found the disciples still . . . "How shall we know the . . . ?" And "How wilt Thou . . . Thyself to the world?" to . . . doubts He gave the same an- . . . "Keep My words." But did . . . mean the awe-struck preserva- . . . of authentic syllables and . . . ?

No indeed! Rather He meant, in . . . first place, "Keep My words . . . your minds." You cannot draw . . . and gain the cash from . . . bank without first creating an . . . account. You cannot give delight . . . without having joy, nor give . . . enough without first possessing . . . strength. Nor can you live the gospel without first having it. It must first of all be in the mind. One reason for our irreligion is due to our Biblical illiteracy. Because of our lack of knowledge of the content of the Bible we take our ethics from the daily newspaper, the radio, the weekly magazine and thus our ethics fail to be "Christian ethics". Remember what Jesus said and you have a start on the Christian life. People in sore trouble can be saved if they will recall a phrase from a great text. The help of a good verse is like a pulmotor to the soul, in moments of collapse and failure. To have such sayings in our disposal is worth all it costs. And it is the first requirement in the art of keeping Jesus' words.

But this is only the first requirement and it alone will not satisfy Jesus. You must keep His words in life. To be sure this is only the obverse side of the law of memory. The things that mean most to us in experience are the things we can remember. The Greek text says, "Keep My words", but the Aramaic says, "Give heed to My words," and both versions are correct.

With such an interpretation all shame is stripped away from the word "kept". Keep money, but keep it in circulation, thus justifying its possessions in use. Keep treasures for everyone's use and enjoyment. Keep wealth in operation, providing, instead of the problem of vain reinvestments and mounting profits, the increase of the buying power of the starved masses, by spreading improved wastes and a decent share in profits. Keep life in service, otherwise it shrinks and withers away. Disused machinery rusts away faster than service uses it away.

So Jesus was right when He urged, "Keep my words" bright and beautiful with use. Not in the pages of a book, not in the echoes of a sanctuary, not even only on the tablets of a mind, but in the actualities of life.

A church organ once stopped in the midst of a hymn, and, unaccompanied, the congregation found out how well it could sing. They kept the music, tho the instrument was silent. Away from the Book and away from the church we go to our work. But in our hearts and minds, and so in our lives, we can "Keep His words".

Tent Revival Service Draws Good Crowds

The tent revival services which are being held on Patterson street between Mark and Farming streets have been in progress throughout this week and have been well attended, according to Rev. Albert M. Hood, pastor of the Second Pilgrim Holiness church, which is sponsoring the services.

Rev. W. C. Bowman is the evangelist, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ankrim of Oak Hill are the singers. Rev. J. R. Siders of Oak Hill is to be present tonight and Sunday night to assist in the services.

Sunday school and morning worship services Sunday will be held at the church, and afternoon and evening services will be in the tent beginning at 2:30 and 7:30. The revival will continue throughout next week.

Delegate Is Elected To Auxiliary Meeting

Mrs. Elizabeth Moore was elected a delegate and Mrs. Lida B. Gunder alternate to the national convention to be held at Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 24 to 28 at a meeting of Betsy Ross auxiliary No. 14, to Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, yesterday afternoon at the Legion Dugout. Following the business session there was a social hour and later the members were joined by veterans of the camp for a potluck dinner, cards and a social evening.

Mrs. Susie Wedertz, president, presided for the afternoon meeting. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Gertrude Andrews, acting chaplain, and Mrs. Mabel Poulin, historian, read an editorial on Muster Day. Contest awards were won by Miss Virginia Griffiths, Mrs. Poulin and Mrs. Marie Wells.

SAYS HE WAS DUPED. Appearing before the senate steel committee in Washington, R. A. Ascher (above), a New York broker, declared he was duped into making a $3,500 deposit in a "grey market" deal in steel. He accused another broker of producing an unauthorized letter, purportedly from a surplus war property official, which was supposed to "confirm" an order by the broker for 10,000 tons of scarce steel.

THIRD UNION SERVICE AT CENTRAL CHURCH

Rev. L. V. Bauguess To Preach Sunday Night Sermon.

The third in the series of summer Sunday evening union services for Marion churches will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Central Christian church of which Rev. Eldred W. Johnston is pastor. Guest preacher will be Rev. L. V. Bauguess, pastor of the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church.

Rev. Johnston, host pastor, will direct the opening service, and music will be provided by the girls' trio of Central Christian church composed of Miss Marybelle Eberhart, Miss Helen Thew and Miss Corrine Nece.

The union services will continue through August at various churches with guest preachers chosen by each host pastor. These services are sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial association.

Postponed Picnic To Be Held on Wednesday

The children's division of the church school of the First Evangelical and Reformed church will hold its previously postponed picnic Wednesday from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon at Garfield Park. Transportation will be provided for those who have no conveyance to the park, and these persons are to meet at the church at 1:45. Others with transportation available are asked to go directly to the park. In case of rain the picnic will be in the church basement. An all-day sewing meeting will be held by the Aid Circle of the Women's Guild Thursday at the church. Activities will begin at 10 a. m. and those attending are asked to bring a covered dish for luncheon at noon.

Central Church Picnic At City Park Monday

A picnic for all members of the Central Christian church and their friends will be held at Garfield Park Monday. The schedule for the days activities is being announced as follows: races and contests beginning at 3:30; ball game at 5 o'clock; picnic supper at 6:30; and roller skating for everyone at the Hy-Way Rollarena at 7:30.

Persons planning to attend are being asked to bring a covered dish, own table service and sandwiches. Coffee and lemonade will be provided. The picnic will be held as scheduled even if it rains. Arrangements are in charge of the membership committee under the direction of Mrs. Zell Bruce.

Softball Schedule

Winning Plan in "Practical Home Contest" Offers New Building Ideas

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

The average house is divided into rooms and halls by interior walls known as partitions. As a rule these walls are not load-bearing and therefore are lightly constructed. Many people who have a house with a room arrangement which they are not particularly pleased with feel that there is nothing that can be done about it. While it may be a fact that they can do a lot about it by changing the partitions.

If there is a room too large, or a room too small there is an excellent chance of your making a very inexpensive alteration which will change your room layout for the better. Usually, the old doors and the old wood trim can be used over again in the new arrangement. The main thing is to find out whether or not the partition you want to move is load-bearing, or in other words is it helping to carry the weight of the floor above or the roof. If not you can move it to conform to your plans for a change. Any good builder or carpenter could probably tell you after five minutes time whether or not any partition could be moved.

Aside from moving partitions in order to better the interior layout of a house there are many times when the installation of new partitions might be desirable, and might make a house or a room more modern or more convenient to the occupants.

The very modern bathroom is now compartmented, or divided into two or three small rooms instead of one large room. Usually when there is a shower stall instead of a bath-tub the modern bathroom is divided into three sections one for the shower, one for the basin and one for the closet-bidet. Each section has its own door so that complete privacy is assured and three people can be using the bathroom at one time. In all large families living in a house with only one bathroom, this compartmentation eliminates the morning bottle-neck.

The bathroom illustrated has a standard fixture arrangement. It can be noted that the building of a light partition puts the closet in a compartment by itself. If shower should be in place of the tub, another corresponding partition will provide a like compartment or section, or the tub could be turned around and enclosed leaving a corner for the basin compartment.

The average bathroom is more or less small but fortunately quite flexible so that there is little difficulty in rearranging it to take advantage of this modern idea.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Removing Wallpaper

Q My kitchen is papered I would like to take off all the paper and then apply paint. But I am afraid that some of the plaster would come off with the paper. Also is there something I could put over the old plaster instead of replastering?

A You can take off the paper by sopping it with water and a large sponge. Start at one end of a wall and work in vertical strips. A handful of washing soda to the gallon of warm water may hasten the work but the solution must not be allowed to drip on woodwork or flooring. (A leaflet on removing wallpaper is being sent to you.) If you find the wall in fairly good condition, you could paint with two coats of enamel undercoater and a finish coat of enamel. Damaged places in the plaster should first be repaired with patching plaster. If the plaster is in very poor condition, an alternative to replastering would be to put up a gypsum wallboard to be painted with enamel. You might also consider covering the walls and ceiling with a stout wall-cloth.

• • •

Paint for Venetian Blinds

Q What method of preparation and what type of paint would you recommend for refinishing Venetian blind slats?

A If you can manage to hang the blind somewhere out of the way you might find it practical to spray-paint it. If you are going to use colored paint get top-quality enamel and follow manufacturer's instructions for thinning the first coat. If the blind is now painted and the paint has peeled in spots rub it down with sandpaper until you get a smooth surface, then wipe off the dust with a cloth dampened with turpentine.

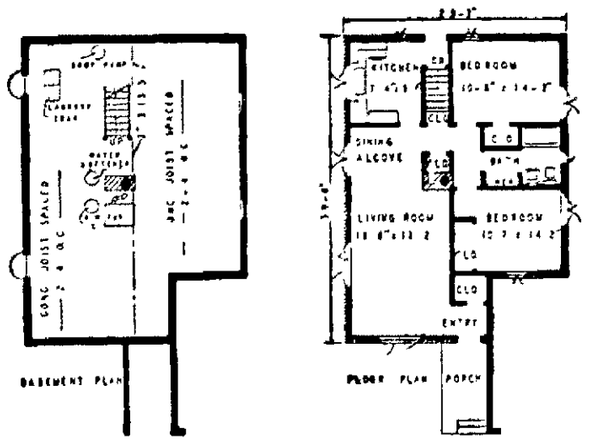
• • •

Driving Nails in Walls

Q How can nails be driven into plaster walls without chipping the plaster?

A. Plaster is too thin and brittle for nails to be driven into it successfully. If you need to hang anything on the walls get a special device for the purpose at a hardware store. To make a hole in plaster, work a screwdriver into the plaster, making the hole about a half-inch wide. Fill the hole with wood putty. When dry, a wood screw can be worked in.

The U. S. Naval Photographic service has developed an electronic repeating flashbulb which flashes 10,000 times without replacement.



Simple, clean lines make this modern home one that does not become dated easily—the profitable kind of investment home owners want most. It looks cozy and it is, being only 30 feet wide. Adding artistic breadth with less expense than a full garage is the car port, which can be completed later if desired.

Exceptionally functional rooms achieve a feeling of space through large picture windows which provide a wealth of light and air. House has concrete floors, suitably covered. The full basement adequately houses laundry and utility equipment.

Designed by Charles B. Rowe, architect, Park Ridge, Ill., this home was a recent winner in the 'Practical Miracle Home Contest' sponsored by Practical Builder magazine, Chicago 3, Ill. Working plans are not available.

COST OF WYANDOT CO. ELECTIONS INCREASES

Budget Estimate for 1948 Vote Nearly $3,000 More.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 19—A sharp rise in election costs for next year is indicated by the budget estimate which had been completed today by A. Billhardt Jr., veteran clerk of the Wyandot county board of elections.

Cost of the 1946 election in the county was $7,496. The estimate for 1948 totals $10,689. The estimate is based on an approximate 20 per cent increase in the cost of ballots, tally books and supplies and the increased pay for board of election members, precinct judges and clerks authorized a bill passed by the legislature in May, 1947, and effective Jan. 2 1948.

Clerks who receive the ballots from the voters at the polls and tally the votes cast in each precinct now are paid $8 for the day. Next year they will receive $12 under the new law. This $4 increase for each of the six precinct workers in the county's 40 precincts is the largest single item of the added cost.

10 AUTOS LEAVE ROAD NEAR CARDINGTON

Wet Pavement of Route 42 Causes Accidents.

About 10 motor vehicles skidded off state route 42 in the Cardington area because of wet pavement resulting from yesterday's rain, the state highway patrol reported.

Patrolmen made accident reports on only two vehicles which left the road, because they said no damage or injuries resulted from the other cars skidding.

Leon Gershwind, 37, of Cleveland suffered lacerations of the right hand when his truck overturned after he had applied the brakes. The injuries did not warrant treatment by a doctor, patrolmen said. The accident occurred eight-tenths of a mile south of Cardington at about 4 p. m.

James E. Bower, 29, of Columbus escaped injury when a panel truck driven by him skidded and overturned when he applied the brakes. The accident occurred one miles south of Cardington at 6:15 p. m.

Merrill A. Sherman, 38, of Mt. Gilead was slated to appear in Mt. Gilead Mayor Booher's court tomorrow to answer a charge of having insufficient brakes on his automobile. His car and a Farm Bureau gasoline truck came together when the driver of the truck attempted to make a right turn from route 61 about four miles north of Mt. Gilead. The truck was driven by Earl Hildebrand, 37, of near Mt. Gilead. The accident occurred at 3:30 p. m. Thursday. Sherman's car was badly damaged.

HOUSE CONVENES TODAY ON ARMS MERGER BILL

Sets Saturday Session In Effort To Bring Quick Action.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—The house was called into an unusual Saturday session today for a showdown on a bill to unify the Army, Navy and Air Forces under a single civilian cabinet member.

Backed by the administration and the G.O.P. leadership, the measure follows generally the lines of a separate bill previously approved by the senate.

There are enough differences in the two versions, however, to make it unlikely that the bill will reach President Truman without going through the give-and-take of a senate-house conference.

Much of the controversy over the "merger" has been removed by agreements providing that the Marine Corps shall retain its separate identity and the Navy its own aviation arm. These agreements overcome much of the opposition from Navy backers.

But though the bill was introduced by Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich) of the house expenditures committee and was rewritten and approved by that group, Hoffman himself denounced it as embodying "possibilities of a dictatorship by the military."

BRIEF BUS DRIVERS' STRIKE HITS CANTON

By The Associated Press

BULLETIN

CANTON, July 19—Canton City Lines, Inc.'s short-lived bus strike was settled shortly after noon today and buses were scheduled to renew operations at 2:30 p. m. The union accepted the company offer to reinstate Driver Martin Miller with no recriminations.

* * *

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., July 19 — This steel city of 120,000 residents was left without public bus transportation at 5 a. m. today when AFL drivers walked off their jobs and started a "continuous union meeting" in protest against management disciplining of a union driver.

Local Union President Max Phillips said drivers walked out to protest a violation of the union's agreement with the Canton city lines by company suspension of a unionist for "refusing to work overtime after he had been on the job eight hours yesterday."

The driver told company officials that he "was tired" and would be unable to work an extra run, Phillips said, adding that the unionist had been suspended for two weeks without pay by the company in violation of the company-union contract.

The contract provides, he said, that a driver "will be placed at the bottom of the union's extra board for three days if he refuses to take a run assigned to him by the company."

C. E. Morgan, manager of the firm, confirmed the company's suspension of the driver, and asserted the action would remain in force despite the unionists' walkout.

Phillips also criticized the company for not providing regular schedules for many of the drivers, and said the union's grievance committee previously received several complaints from unionists against the firm's scheduling system.

Officials of the firm, a subsidiary of National City Lines, estimated that 65,000 to 70,000 persons depended upon bus transportation here each Saturday.

Day-Old Infant Killed When Incubator Burns

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., July 19—An infant girl, just one day old, was burned fatally when an incubator in the maternity ward of Robinwood hospital caught fire last night.

Earl Martin, whose own child had been born but two hours earlier, extinguished the blaze just as firemen arrived. There 13 other babies in the fourth floor nursery at the time, but hospital staff members moved them to another room.

District Fire Chief Joseph Kenney said defective wiring caused the incubator's canvas cover to ignite. The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl G. Showler, weighed only one pound, eight ounces and was premature, Coroner Paul J. Hohly said.

Greek Front Visited by UN

Commission Makes On-Spot Check of "Brigade" Charges.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, July 19—The United Nations Balkan subsidiary commission moved into northwestern Greece today for an on-the-spot investigation of Greek charges that an "International Brigade" had invaded from Albania.

The move was reported to UN headquarters yesterday as the security council recessed hearings on the Balkan problem until next Tuesday, when the U. S. will attempt to force a showdown with Russia on establishing a watch over Greece's northern borders.

The subsidiary commission's decision to move into northern Greece came after its investigating team reported from the field that it had "heard little first-hand evidence" that detachments of an "International Brigade" coming from Albania had invaded Greek territory.

Aid Chief Calls For End of Greek Rebellion

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, July 19—Dwight P. Griswold, administrator of the U. S. program of assistance to Greece, said today "I want to see the rebellion stopped" to open the way for Greek reconstruction.

The Greek ministry of public order announced that 11,500 persons were under arrest and were to be imprisoned or deported, all charged with political offenses. Greek government troops and planes harried guerrillas seeking escape east and northeast of Ioannina.

Griswold, speaking at his first news conference since arriving from the United States, said: "rebel fighting is holding back the reconstruction of Greece. I want to see the rebellion stopped. If it were, we could then reconstruct."

Replying to a reporter for a leftwing paper who had asked whether Griswold expected activities to come to a halt by the waving of a "magic wand," the U. S. administrator said:

"I am certain that you have more influence in that respect than I."

Greeks Claim Guerrillas Lost 110 in Battle

By The United Press

ATHENS, July 19—The Greek army reported officially today that it had killed 110 guerrillas and captured 70 others since Sunday.

Additional casualties were inflicted by the Greek Air Force, said a spokesman for the Greek general staff.

He set Greek army casualties at nine killed and 11 wounded. His figures on guerilla losses were considerably lower than those claimed by rightist political sources, and his account of the fighting varied from that given by Defense Minister Napoleon Zervas.

450 SOUTHWESTERN GRAIN ELEVATORS CLOSE DOORS

Boxcar Shortage Blamed as Record Wheat Harvest Comes In.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 19—About 450 southwestern grain elevators have been forced to shut down as a result of a shortage of boxcars in which to ship the record wheat harvest, a transportation spokesman said today, although more wheat is being shipped in fewer cars than ever before.

Eugene W. Coughlin, of Washington, assistant chairman of the car service division of the Association of American Railroads, said in a interview here that the boxcar situation is "very tight." He said that approximately 450 elevators, mainly in Kansas and Oklahoma, have shut down either partially or entirely during the past week due to a lack of cars.

However, Coughlin said that for the week ending July 12 the American railroads hauled 71,093 cars of both grain and grain products compared with 59,027 carloads for the same week a year ago.

This record load was carried in less cars than were in use on the railroads a year ago, a spokesman for the midwest shippers advisory board said.

SHEAF OF VET BILLS UP FOR SENATE O.K.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—The Republican leadership pressed for senate action today on a sheaf of veterans bills, including one to authorize cashing of terminal leave bonds worth $1,800,000,000.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the G.O.P. policy committee, put these measures at the top of the docket for an extraordinary Saturday session in an effort to assure adjournment of congress July 26—just one week hence.

But Taft told a reporter that plans to act first on veterans legislation depended on whether Senator Kem (R-Mo) would agree to set aside temporarily his move for a full-dress investigation of how the justice department handled an inquiry into alleged frauds in the 1946 Kansas City Democratic primary.

Taft said Kem had given him no definite assurance, but that he was hopeful the Missourian would be willing to sidetrack the controversial resolution until next week.

Taft said he had made an agreement with Senator Morse (R-Ore) that the senate would turn to veterans legislation today, and that the Oregonian was insisting that the pact be kept.

The bond bill, already passed by the house, would authorize—but not require — 9,000,000 veterans to cash their terminal leave bonds any time after Sept. 1. At precent they may not be cashed until five years from the date of issue.

BIKINI TEST MAY BACK UP DARWIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—One outcome of the Bikini atomic bomb test may be to prove whether the Charles Darwin theory of the origin of an atoll is right.

Dispatches received by the Navy today from a scientific party making a one-year-later survey told of drilling operations by the U. S. geological survey and the Navy designed to establish definitely how the atolls develop.

Darwin advanced the theory that coral atolls are formed by coral growing upon reefs around a slowly sinking island. Since his time geologists have argued pro and con.

Some of America's leading geologists, headed by Dr. Harry S. Ladd of the U. S. geological survey are cooperating with the scientific atoll study. They are Dr. John W. Wells of Ohio State university; Dr. J. Harlan Johnson, school of mines; Dr. R. Dana Russell, formerly of the Louisiana State university and now a consultant to the U. S. Navy electronics laboratory, San Diego, Calif.

Enrollment Increases In Swimming Classes

Despite lack of cooperation on the part of the weather the Red Cross classes in swimming instruction are going forward at Crystal Lake, T. E. Brownlee, water safety chairman of the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross said today.

With a record enrollment of 135 for the opening day last Monday, the number was increased during the week and Friday's report showed 160 boys and girls registered for the junior classes held in the afternoon. In the adult class seven persons are taking instructions in swimming and life saving and in the junior life saving class there are seven, the figures show. Classes, which are held at 2 and 6:30 p. m. each day Monday through Friday, will continue through next week.

Instruction is free, Mr. Brownlee points out, and the instructors are all qualified by the Red Cross.

6 Bandits Get $400 In Holdup Near Akron

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 19 — Six masked robbers armed with revolvers and a sawed-off shotgun early today held up Duffy's tavern in the nearby Portage lakes district and obtained from $300 0to $400 from the tavern manager and some 25 customers, Sheriff Robert Smith reported.

Entering the tavern with drawn guns, the masked gang ordered patrons and employes to line up against the wall and toss their wallets on a gambling table, Sheriff Smith said.

A newspaperman, assigned by his city editor to "check" the tavern for a story, entered the tavern while the robbery was taking place. Lined up with other patrons, the newsman received an "eye-witness" account as the robbers left the scene and escaped the sheriff added.

Clark Gable Playing Lead In "Hucksters" at Palace

One of the years most talked-about motion pictures, 'The Hucksters,' which is adapted from Frederic Wakeman's novel about the radio advertising business opened at the Palace theater today. It is scheduled to run the entire week through Friday.

Clark Gable heads the all-star cast, with Deborah Kerr, one of England's leading stars, making her American film debut. Others in top roles are Sydney Greenstreet, Adolphe Menjou, Ava Gardner, Keenan Wynn and Edward Arnold.

In the story which headed best-seller lists for nearly a year, Gable plays Vic Norman, a fast-talking advertising salesman de luxe, who becomes a 'huckster' for the Kimberly Advertising Agency and who uses everything he's got to put over the firm's radio campaign for "Beautee Soap."

Vic returns from the war with $50 in his pocket, spends most of it on a necktie that will impress the head of the advertising agency, and ends up by impressing everyone else, including the soap manufacturer, Evan Llewellyn Evans, played by Sydney Greenstreet. Evans spurs Vic on to some Hollywood intrigues in an effort to lure a comic away from a rival sponsor, and almost but not quite succeeds in breaking up Vic's romance with a lovely society woman, Kay Dorrance, played by Deborah Kerr.

Vic Norman becomes a success in everything and with everyone until Kay finally wakes him up to the fact that there are more important things than being a $35,000-a-year 'yes-man."

Added attractions with the picture will be a cartoon short, 'Mouse Come Home' and a Pete Smith short, 'Playing by Ear.'

Ohio Showing Ghost Comedy

Gene Tierney Plays Feminine Lead in Picture Running Through Thursday.

"The Ghost and Mrs Muir," which is said to be one of the best comedy pictures of the year, opened yesterday at the Ohio theater and is billed to run through Thursday. Gene Tierney, Rex Harrison and George Sanders are seen in the starring roles.

The picture, which is adapted from the best-seller novel by R. A. Dick, has a supernatural theme but is far from a horror picture. Gene Tierney is seen in a characterization of a young woman who falls in love with a ghost. The high-spirited ghost is played by Rex Harrison. George Sanders is the third party in the strange triangle.

A new film drama, 'Possessed," which boasts an outstanding cast headed by Joan Crawford and Van Heflin, is the new bill scheduled to open Friday.

The story in "Possessed" tells of the emotional feelings encountered by Louise Howell, played by Joan Crawford, in her desperate search for love. Louise has the misfortune of falling in love with David Sutton, played by Van Heflin. After he brings their romance to an end, Louise, seemingly recovered, marries her wealthy widowed employer, only to find herself still thinking of David. She then decides to solve her problems by fatal methods.

Heading the large supporting cast are Raymond Massey and Geraldine Brooks.

Erie Telegrapher Retires at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, July 19—Starting as a call boy and messenger in the Erie dispatcher's office in June 1893, Jay G. Lee retired Wednesday, July 16, as an Erie operator after a continuous service of 54 years, one month and 15 days.

March 4 1895 he was assigned to a telegrapher's position, and continued in the dispatcher's office, working all positions up to the time the office was moved to Marion. Rather than leave Galion, Mr. Lee accepted a position working jointly with the New York Central and Erie railroads in the telegraph service from which position he retired this week.

He was elected general chairman of the telegraphers organization, representing train dispatchers, station agents, and telegraphers, 38 years ago, and has served continuously in that capacity since that time. He is known widely to the men in the service between New York and Chicago.

For the past 10 years he has been a real estate broker's license, and plans to devote his time to the real estate business after his retirement.

REX HARRISON, Gene Tierney and George Sanders, shown above from top to bottom, are co-starred in the filmization of 'The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," screen version of R. A. Dick's sensational best-seller which is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Marion Books "Duel in Sun"

Will Open July 25 To Run Through July 30 as Single Feature.

"Duel in the Sun" will open Friday, July 25 at the Marion theater as a single attraction for an engagement through Wednesday July 30.

Double features are billed to be shown the last part of the week. Sunday and Monday will be 'The Sea of Grass" and 'The Long Shot' and playing Tuesday through Thursday will be 'Web of Danger' and "Raiders of the South."

The David O. Selznick technicolor production 'Duel in the Sun,' is told against a background of post Civil War Texas days. The starring players are Jennifer Jones, as a tempestuous half-breed named Pearl Chavez, Gregory Peck as Lewt McCanles a charming but wild man, and Joseph Cotten as his brother, Jesse McCanles, an idealistic gentleman.

Other important roles are portrayed by Lionel Barrymore, Lillian Gish, Herbert Marshall, Walter Huston, Charles Bickford and many others. An outstanding feature of the picture is the background music.

Swordfish have been known to thrust through 27 inches of solid timber.

BURBRINK, MAXHIMER, ROSIN NAMED TO OSL ALL-STARS

Dayton's Ival Goodman To Pilot Team Against Dodgers, July 29

Three Marion Cubs have been named to positions on the Ohio State league All-Star team, according to The Associated Press. They are Manager Nelson Burbrink, pitcher Bill Rosin, and outfielder Dwight Maxhimer.

Zanesville led in obtaining berths with four players named, Richmond received three berths, Newark, Dayton and Springfield, two, and Lima and Muncie each placed one.

Winners of the contest for Marion fans to pick the All-Star team will be announced in Monday's Star.

The team selected by baseball writers of the circuit, was announced today by League President Frank M. Colley.

These players, with the exception of the four from Zanesville who are replaced by the runners-up in the voting, will compete against the Dodgers in the league's fourth annual All-Star game at Zanesville on Tuesday night, July 29.

Picked from the pace-setters were Manager Clay Bryant, as pilot, shortstop Morris Mikesell, outfielder Bob Bartholomew and pitcher Sanford Lambert.

Bryant's place as manager will be taken by Manager Ival Goodman of the Dayton Indians, while Goodman's coach will be Manager Don Ramsay of the Springfield Giants.

The pitching staff to face the Dodgers will be composed of Tony West, Springfield; Bill Rosin, Marion; Kenneth St. Pierre, Richmond; Bob Brunner, Newark and Ed Post of Muncie who moves in to take Lambert's spot.

Two of the league managers Nelson Burbrink of Marion and Rex Carr of Richmond, were named to do the All-Star catching.

The infield will be composed of Johnny Batt of Newark at first base, Marty Sebastian of Dayton at second base, Bob Verrier of Richmond at third base and Vincent O'Grady of Springfield, replacement for Mikesell at shortstop. Don Slater of Lima won the utility berth.

The outfield has Paul Scally of Springfield, Dwight Maxhimer of Marion, Lloyd Foster of Muncie and Jack Maisch of Lima, replacement for Bartholomew.

SPRINGFIELD ARRIVES FOR THREE-TILT SET WITH MARION'S CUBS

Shrine Game Tonight; Doubleheader Tomorrow on Bruins' Docket.

The Springfield Giants are in town today for a three-game series at Lincoln park with the Cubs. Last night's game with Dayton was rained out.

The two teams are to hook up tonight in a single contest featured as the annual Shrine game with the net proceeds going to the crippled children's fund.

The Giants will stay over tomorrow for a Sunday doubleheader with the first game at 2 and the other at 8.

With the Springfield lineup crowded with left handed batters, Manager Nelson Burbrink, with the aid of the weather man, has all his southpaw twirlers ready for action in the three game set.

Jim Sabens with a record of 6 wins and 2 losses will start the Shrine game tonight. Bert Flamini, newly acquired southpaw who has not yet twirled at Lincoln park, has a record of 3 wins against no setbacks. John Graney, with one won and none lost is the other left hander likely to see action in the Springfield series.

Monday the Cubs go to Muncie for a two-day stand then move to Richmond for three days. They end the trip by playing at Lima Saturday night and a twin bill Sunday. Following the trip three off days are on the schedule to allow for the All-Star game at Zanesville July 29.

Black Shuts Out Washington, 6-0

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 19 — The Cleveland Indians, apparently recovered from the "Yankee plague," were to meet the Washington Senators in the second game of the series today after Don Black blanked the Nats, 6-0, last night.

Black's five-hit performance ended a six-game losing streak for the Indians who dropped five in a row to the whirlwind New York Yankees.

Never rated much of a hitter, Black broke Early Wynn's heart by clouting a base-cleaning double in the second inning last night. From then on, the portly right-hander, who hurled a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Athletics last week, had things his own way.

Doubles by Hal Peck, Dale Mitchell and Lou Boudreau were good for two additional markers in the fifth inning, and singles by Jim Hegan and Peck and Mitchell's long fly accounted for the final run in the sixth.

Mitchell's blow kept his consecutive game hitting streak intact. He now has hit safely in 20 straight contests.

Marshall Hits 3 Homers As Giants Whip Reds

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 19—Willard Marshall, hefty New York Giant outfielder from Richmond, Va., today rated a line in the National league's all-time record book.

He equalled a record shared by 25 others last night as he hit three consecutive home runs to pace the Gothamites in a 8-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

He accounted for five runs. His first round-tripper was over empty sacks in the fourth but teammate John Mize, quite a clouter himself, was aboard on wayks when he hit for the circuit in the sixth and seventh innings. The splurge boosted Marshall's homer output this season to 24.

Mize belted his 27th circuit drive in the fourth inning and another Giant, Bobby Thomson, parked his 16th homer of the year in the left field stands in the seventh inning.

Although nicked for 13 hits, Larry Jansen registered his ninth win for the Giants who stepped up into second place.

Detroit's Hutchinson Stops Yankee Win Streak at 19

By The Associated Press

"Stoppers" Freddy Hutchinson, 27-year-old native of Seattle, Wash., and 21-year-old Ralph Branca, from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a pair of righthanded hurlers, were receiving plaudits today for having given probably the best pitching performances yet in the 1947 major league season.

Hutchinson, Detroit Tiger twirler, probably had the toughest assignment ever handed a pitcher this season. Entrusted with the task of stopping the New York Yankees, something no pitcher had been able to do in 19 straight games since June 29, Hutch not only squelched the Yankees' bid for their 20th straight twin—an American league record—but stopped them cold with only two hits as he shut them out 8-0.

Branca Just Misses

Branca, Brooklyn's mound ace, came even closer than Hutchinson in joining the elite group of pitchers who have hurled perfect games, that is, allowing no one to reach base.

Ralph retired the first 21 men to face him in shutting out the St. Louis Cardinals 7-0 with one hit. And but for an eighth inning leadoff single by Enos Slaughter and a pass to Whitey Kurowski later in the inning, he would have become the first pitcher in modern National league history to have pitched a perfect game.

The defeat by Hutchinson and the Tigers left the Yankees as co-holders of the American league consecutive game winning record with the 1906 Chicago White Sox. The major league record of 26 is held by the 1916 New York Giants.

Giants In Second

The Giants' 8-3 victory over Cincinnati enabled them to move into second place past the Boston Braves who dropped a 2-1 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates in Boston.

The Chicago Cubs collected 16 hits, three apiece by Harry Lowrey, Andy Pafko and Phil Cavarretta, to defeat the Phillies in Philadelphia 7-5.

Ted Williams enjoyed his best batting day of the season as he smacked five for five including his 17th and 18th home runs and drove in five runs, but the St. Louis Browns nosed out his Boston Red Sox 9-8.

Joe Haynes allowed only four hits in pitching the Chicago White Sox to a 4-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics in Chicago. It was Haynes' fifth victory of the season.

Knothole Kid Holds Homer To 3-Bagger

By The Associated Press

Salem, Ore.—In the second inning of a baseball game with Spokane, Woody Salmon of the Western International League Salem club belted a home run over the fence.

A high school youth retrieved the ball and returned to his fence perch.

In the eighth inning George Vico slammed another over the fence for Salem. The youth, in his haste to get the Vico ball, dropped the horsehide he had been holding.

The astonished Spokane outfielder, seeing a ball rolling on the ground, picked it up and heaved it in. Vico was tagged out as he rounded third — at least the umpire called him out—with the ball which Salmon had banged over the fence six innings earlier.

JUDGE MOORE TAKES GRAND CIRCIUT STAKE

By The Associated Press

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 19—A Reynolds horse from Winston Salem, N. C., carried off the $10,000 Bostwick purse today as Grand Circuit harness racers moved out of Saratoga.

The meet will be resumed Monday at Roosevelt raceway, Westbury, N. Y.

Judge Moore, a home-bred two-year-old trotter owned by W. N. Reynolds, won the Bostwick by six open lengths last night. Bobbie Jane, owned by William Cassaro of Gloversville, placed, and Dick Son, from Fort Fairfield, Me., was third.

Del Miller drove the winner over a slow track in 2:22.

Fred B. Greenley's Direct Express, from Harrington, Del., took the single-dash $5,000 Albany pace for his 15th consecutive victory.

Proximity and Heart of Gold ended in a dead heat in the first dash of the $5,000 Arden trot. Clint Hodgins drove Proximity to an open length win over Heart of Gold in the second dash.

"DON'T BELIEVE IT," PEGGY KIRK SCOFFS AFTER GOLF VICTORY

Jubilant New Ohio Women's Champ Still Pinching Self.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 19 — Peggy Kirk, long-hitting, Findlay, O., linkswoman, today was the new ruler of Ohio women's golf, but she still could not believe it.

As she stroked home a two-foot putt on the 35th hole yesterday that meant a 2 and 1 title victory over Jean Kopkins pretty Peggy said: "I don't believe it. That's the first one I've really won on my own."

Miss Kirk, who has been playing competitive golf eight years, never had won an individual championship. She took the mixed two-ball title with Joe Kirwood in 1946 at Orlando, Fla., and last winter team with Mildred Didrikson Zaharias to capture the international four-ball title at Hollywood, Fla.

Peggy was forced to make an uphill fight to win the crown over the rugged Portage course. Miss Hopkins, a Clevelander, piled up a two-hole margin at the end of nine holes in the morning round, but the match stood all even at the end of the first 18.

Miss Hopkins carded birdies on the 20th and 25th holes to give her a two-up margin on the out nine of the afternoon match. Then the Findlay girl began her drive.

Pars on the 28th and 29th holes put Miss Kirk back on even terms and set the stage for the turning point of the match, the 34th hole where Miss Hopkins missed a four-foot put to lose the hole to Peggy with a bogey five.

A hooked drive on the 35th then ended Miss Hopkins' hopes for her first state crown.

Little Grand Circuit To Close Tonight with 10-Dash Program

The Little Grand Circuit race program will be brought to a close tonight. If the weather permits 10 dashes will be held starting at 7:30. Five big stake races that remain on the program will make up one of the best cards ever put together at the fraiground track.

The two divisions of the 2:25 class pace stake that were rained out Monday night after one dash in each division has been declared finished and is off the program.

The five remaining stake events to be contested tonight will be the 2-year-old trot, 24 trot, 23 pace, 14 trot, and 17 pace. The Free-for-All pace also is omitted for tonight because several entries are entered in the other pacing events. None of the over night events will be held.

Of the 17 days billed for the fairgrounds track this year, only eight have been dry enough to permit racing. And in one of those Monday, only one half a program was finished as rain stopped the card at the end of the fourth.

PLAYS THAT COUNT

By FRANK ECK
Associated Press Sports Editor

Stanley (Bucky) Harris, Washington's Boy Wonder manager of 1924 now managing the New York Yankees, remembers two important plays in games that decided World Series winners more than a score of years ago.

HARRIS
Yankees

"The play I like to recall," says Bucky, "decided the seventh and final game of the Washington-New York Series in 1924. In the 12th inning with the score tied at 3-3 and Muddy Ruel on second base Earl McNeely hit a ground ball at Freddy Lindstrom. The ball took the nicest big hop I've ever seen and went over Lindstrom's head into left field.

"It hit a clump of dirt or something and won the Series. As Ruel, a slow runner, rounded third Emil Meusel stuck the ball in his back pocket and we won the Series, four games to three. A throw might have nailed Muddy.

"But the play I don't like to remember happened in 1925 while I was managing the Senators against Bill McKechnie and Pittsburgh. It cost us the Series.

"In the eighth inning of the seventh and final game I thought Kiki Cupler had struck out but the umpire said it was a ball. Kiki then accidentally stuck his bat out while getting away from one of Walter Johnson's fast balls and hit a blooper over Joe Judge's head at first base to score the winning run.

City Slickers Not Going To Country This Year

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, July 19—There is [illegible] tale behind the following [illegible] from a newspaper society [illegible].

[illegible]r. and Mrs. Ronald Chatfield [illegible] and their charming chil[illegible] Gloria and Junior, have [illegible]ed up the country this sea[illegible]on and are va[illegible]tioning at Bide-[illegible]-Wee on [illegible]ersey coast."

[illegible]Mrs. Clutch, [illegible]e of the popu[illegible]r young (43) [illegible]band - coming [illegible]Manhattan se[illegible]cumes sales[illegible]man won't be [illegible]e to regale [illegible]er Park avenue [illegible]rums this year [illegible]with a humorous [illegible]count of the [illegible]family's annual summer month on [illegible]e farm of her husband's odd [illegible]n, Egbert.

[illegible]The Clutches changed their [illegible]ds and left for the seashore [illegible]ow receiving this letter from [illegible]Egbert:

Dear Ronald,

[illegible]What I have to say in this [illegible]er has nothing to do with the [illegible]e $1,500 worth of oil stock [illegible]d me a year ago is now [illegible]eaper than mail order house [illegible]ialogue.

Put On Sound Basis

[illegible]So if you and Sandra Ellen [illegible]the kids are planning to come [illegible]e this month, as you have for [illegible]e last 10 years, I would like to [illegible]it on a sound basis, as you fellows say in the big city.

"I don't want you to think from this that I am still mad at your Junior—my wife, Adeline Mae, jokingly calls him 'The Plague'—for shooting six of my best hens with his air rifle. Nor do we readily mind that our four cows quit giving milk for three days last summer after Sandra Ellen and Gloria walked out into the pasture in their sun suits. It was worth the milk we lost just to tell that story to our neighbors at the church social after you left.

"And I bear no grudge because our hired man, after watching you lie in bed till noon, got big ideas and quit me and went to the village to open an insurance business, right in the middle of harvest. He's back now.

"No, Ronald, family ties are strong, and you are always welcome. But I know it must have been worrying you that we have never accepted any contribution from you toward our household expenses in the 10 summers your family has come here. As a matter of fact, I don't believe we have been offered a chance to accept.

No Embarrassment

"So this year I want to relieve you of any embarrassment by suggesting that you pay us the $200 you get for subletting your New York apartment while you're out here. Adeline Mae and I will give you the bedrooms as usual, as we really never have minded sleeping in the attic during your visits.

"Since food has gone up and farmers have to buy most of their stuff from the stores nowadays, I think about $20 a day—$600 for the month—would be about right for the meals. There is also the matter of a $69.50 repair bill for the tractor Junior ran into the barn. I was able to fix the barn myself.

"Incidentally, old Dr. McThrombis said to tell you that the $35 check you promised him for setting Junior's arm two years ago after he fell out of the cherry tree and ruined my only beehive has been lost a long time in the mails.

"If that $800 figure seems pretty high to you for the month, here, I have another proposition. When you first came here 10 years ago our daughter, little Trellis Ann, wanted to study home economics and marry a boy on the next farm.

Not Quite the Type

"But after listening to Sandra Ellen and Gloria all these summers, she's decided to go to New York and become a model. I know she's bowlegged and her front teeth never quite straightened out, but she's determined.

"So if you'll let her go back to New York and bed and board with you for six months or so while she's going to a fashion model school, I'll waive any charges for your month here. Trellis Ann is such a card! She just said, 'Who knows, maybe Cousin Gloria will help me snatch off one of her rich Park avenue beaux!'

"Well, what do you say, Ronald? We'll sure be glad to have you and the family out here again. Summer wouldn't be right without you.

Your country cousin,
Egbert.

P. S. The county home is so over crowded that we are temporarily boarding an orphan idiot boy, who has learned a cute trick of pending horseshoes with his little hands. He has a gentle disposition, but I know you will caution Junior against teasing him."

So the Park avenue Clutches went to the seashore, and the country Clutches had a wonderful restful vacation from them on the farm—and got the corn crop in on time.

Hal Boyle

ADMINISTRATRIX'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

In the Probate Court of Marion County, Ohio, Case No. 16525.

Margaret Zachman, Administratrix of the Estate of Adam Loucher, deceased, Plaintiff, vs. Margaret Zachman, et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of the order of the Probate Court of Marion County, Ohio, I will offer for sale at public auction on the 2nd day of August, 1947, at 10:00 A. M., at the east door of the Court House the following described real estate situated in the City of Marion, County of Marion and State of Ohio and further described as follows:

Known as being a part of out lots No. 24 and 25 in Bunker and Runyan's Addition to the town, now city, of Marion, Ohio, said lots renumbered 488 and 489 as appears on records of renumbering, and said numbers 488 and 489 were dropped from the duplicate by authority of reappraisement made in 1930 and said two lots renumbered 342 of Land numbers; and described as follows: Commencing at a point in the south line of Columbia Street thirty-seven (37) feet west of the northeast corner of said lot 342 and at the northwest corner of a tract of land conveyed to Henry C. Yocham by James W. Bain by deed dated December 16th, 1903, and recorded in Vol. 193 and page 411 in Record of Deeds of Marion Co., Ohio; thence southward on west line of said Yocham tract to the southwest corner thereof and to the south line of said Lot No. 342; thence west on said south line thirty-six (36) feet to the southeast corner of tract of land conveyed to James H. Harruff by James W. Bain by deed dated Oct. 24th, 1903 and recorded in Vol. 193, and page 345 in Records of Deeds of Marion Co., Ohio; thence northward on east line of said Harruff tract to the northeast corner thereof and south line of Columbia Street; thence east on said south line thirty-six (36) feet to the place of beginning. Also conveys one-half interest in well supposed to be on west line of the herein described lot.

Being known by street address as 231 West Columbia Street. Said premises being improved with a seven (7) room dwelling house, bath and partial basement.

Said premises are appraised at Three Thousand Six Hundred Dollars ($3600.00) and must be sold for not less than two-thirds (⅔) the appraised value and the terms of said sale are "Cash on the Day of Sale"; that is, ten per cent (10%) of the purchase price to be deposited with said administratrix on the day of sale and the balance to be paid on confirmation of said sale.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I HAVE heard the phrase "Seconds spelling eternity," but I never so clearly realized its meaning as I did in the short interval between the sound of the long distance operator's voice and that of my stately, poised sister-in-law.

But it was not a poised woman who faltered "Madge?" over the wire from Detroit. The voice was that of a woman surely distraught, and I regretted the impulse which had sent me to the telephone instead of asking Dicky to answer his sister's call.

It was too late to change now, however, and I braced myself not only to deal with her nervousness but to hear the verdict which literally would mean life or death to Mary.

"Yes, Harriet," I said, making my voice calm with almost a superhuman effort. "I can see you got my letter."

"Ten minutes ago. The instant I finished reading it, I rushed to the telephone. Is Mary where I can talk to her?"

"She is still asleep," I said. "The physicinn, who is here now, said she must not be awakened until after he reached here. I am so thankful you telephoned before she wakened. But, Harriet, what is your answer to that question I asked you,"

"No, no, no!" she said, her voice becoming more strident at each repetition. "Dicky and Mother were perfectly right in what they told you and you passed on to Mary. There never was any possible thought of anything else."

"Oh, thank God!" I breathed fervently, and felt as if I could not hold the received to my ear another second.

Then, as Dicky's hand took it from mine and Dr. Twitchell put his hand on my arm and impelled me to a chair, I realized that they had been watching me and gauging my reactions to the verdict I just had heard. Dr. Twitchell proffered me a glass of water, and I took a sip of it because it was the quickest way to escape his solicitude.

Then I leaned forward in my chair, listening avidly to Dicky's end of the telephone conversation.

"I'm taking over, Harriet," he said with careful casualness, "because I want to get this first-hand. No, there's nothing the matter with Madge. She'll talk to you again in another minute. But this is mighty vital to me. I understand your answer is no. Be careful what you say over the phone," he added quickly. "Now, go on, tell me."

He listened intently, and a minute later spoke emphatically.

"I don't wonder Madge thanked God!" he said. "I'm thanking Him, too, for all His mercies. What this will mean to Mary when she awakens, I can't begin to tell you. What's that? Will Mary be able to see you in a few days if you fly out here? Why, that will be up to Dr. Twitchell. He is right here. Would you like to talk to him?"

Dr. Twitchell spoke to me in a hurried undertone.

"Which would be better, for the aunt to come here, or for Mary to go there on a short visit?"

"Either one is all right," I answered, "and Mrs. Braithwaite can see her mother at the same time. She was ill at the time of Mother Graham's accident, and has not been able to get here since."

Beckoning Hand

"Thank you," he said as he rose, and walked toward Dicky's beckoning hand. He listened for a few seconds to Harriet, and then delivered a monologue. There was no other name for it. He certainly gave Harriet no chance for an interrupting question.

"I see no reason why Mary should not be able to see you in a few days," he said. "But I must watch and judge her reactions to this news, and the speed of her convalescence, before I give a final decision.

"But if she improves as rapidly as I hope she will," he went on, "there is no reason whatever why you may not come here at the end of a week—from today, I mean. I will arrange to have Mrs. Graham get in touch with you as soon as I have seen how Mary reacts.

Can't Speak to Mary

"As to your request to speak to the patient now," he said with decision, "that is impossible. I am sure you will see the reason. Mary is not yet awake. I wish her to waken of herself, and not be roused by any outside action. You can readily see that, I am sure. Just a moment, please."

And then the door flew open, and Mary ran into the room, followed closely by Katharine.

"Is that Aunt Harriet on the telephone?" Mary shrilled. "Is it? Is it? If it is, don't anybody dare keep me from talking to her!"

Forest Lawn Society To Hold Picnic Aug. 19

A picnic to be held the evening of Aug. 19 at the home of Mrs. W. B. Burley of 359 South Grand avenue was planned at a meeting Tuesday evening of the Ladies' Aid Society of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church. Mrs. Ethel Haines of 127 Lincoln avenue was hostess for the meeting with Mrs. C. C. Metz in charge of the business session. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Walter Minshall. A reading by Mrs. K. P. Riley was included on the program. Mrs. L. V. Bauguess conducted a contest with the award going to Mrs. Riley.

Guests included Mrs. Frank Dennison, Mrs. W. M. Thrush and Mrs. Henry Grimes. Mrs. Thrush and Mrs. Grimes were later enrolled as new members.

The first United States Naval vessel to circumnavigate the world was the USS Vincennes, which left New York in September, 1826, and returned via the Cape of Good Hope in June, 1830.
